THE Excellent Authour of this Chronological System having here prefix'd an Account concerning his own Work, wherein he shews at large the Disposition and Use of it, 'twould be no other than a piece of Ceremonious Vanity to trouble the Reader, or cumber the Book with a formal Preface.

I shall onely acquaint the Reader with what has been done in the present Translation, which besides the Exactness and Fidelity it may (I hope, without Arrogance) pretend to, has farther recommended the Authour by a double Improvement, viz. Continual Additions all throughout as occasion required, and one intire Supplement at the End, which from the Year 1666. where the Authour leaves off, continues the Work to the Present Time.

TO THE READER.

Of the Disposition and Use of this SYSTEME:

O R,

[An Introduction to the ensuing Body of CHRONOLOGY.]

THIS CHRONOLOGICAL SYSTEME (courageous Reader!) was not at the first written by me with a design to expose it to publick view; but I compos'd the same at vacant hours for my private Use, both that I might keep in memory a general Series of the Times from the Creation of the World, and take a more exact cognisance of Scaliger's Method, (for that I chiefly followed) whensoever my Affairs should allow me spare time, which then I was verily perswaded I could not employ better. The just occasion of its being publish'd was this; one or other of my Friends and Collegues looking by chance upon it, as I was [at certain times] perusing it, did advise and perswade me to set it forth. For which reason, I am not greatly obliged, either to make an Apology for this my Design, or to render an Account of this Work, having trac'd the Foot-steps of another Authour. However, that the Cause and Proof of this Method might appear the more conspicuous, I thought it not beside the purpose to insert them in the Tables themselves, where room was not wanting in the Page, and withall to add the Explication and Histories out of Scaliger's Animadversions on Eusebius, or out of other Historians. In which matter, I received no small assistance from the Studies of that most learned Chronologer Sethus Calvisius, my honoured Friend, whose most laborious and most exact Treatise of Chronology is deservedly commended by Scaliger in the highest degree. Wherein I could receive no help from his Works, (for neither did they answer my intention in all points) I made use of other Authours, whose names also I adjudged it worth my while to set down.

Now whereas there is a two-fold contexture of Chronology, viz. the one by way of Epitome, Abridgment, or Breviary, termed by the Greeks κατ' ἐμπίδαν, secundum universitatem, i. e. according to the generality, when we make an orderly but compendious collection of the years of every Kingdom, King and Wealpublick; which Method is commonly observed in the Abridgment of History; The other κατὰ πλάτος, secundum latitudinem, i. e. at large, [or, (as the Lawyers say) in ample manner,] by a full expansion or setting forth of every year, and mutual comparison of divers Kingdoms, Kings and Epochaes one together with the other: 'Tis apparent that we make use of the latter way; wherein, that all things may rightly agree, there is great toil great labour indeed. As for the former, any one may frame it, either by Scaliger's Canons or by this Systeme, for 'tis not difficult. Nor do I regard whether this or that man shall say, 'tis an easie Task for me, since I tread in the Foot-steps of another Man; for I shall willingly submit to the Judgment of such who are skilfull in these matters. But that it may more plainly appear what our intent is, we will treat (but briefly) by way of Proem or Preface, of the principal things, under certain Heads.

I.

Of the equal Intervals of Centenaries and Denaries, i. e. Hundreds and Tens of Years.

WHat our Authour [Scaliger] chiefly aim'd at, in his first contrivance of this Systeme, was a distribution of Years, from the beginning of the World

Of the Disposition and Use of this Systeme : or, down to our times, into equal spaces or distances of Centenaries and Decads [viz. Hundreds and Tens of Years] by reason of the singular use or advantage which therefrom result. For thus, the Reader cannot chuse but remember and declare, by the year of the World, or of Christ, wherein every Exploit or History happen'd, how many years distance the one was from the other; provided he make himself well acquainted with the Order and Continuation of the principal Governments in each Monarchy, by which guidance the Series of History will easily be retain'd in Memory. For every Page of his did contain one Hundred entire years; so it must on necessity fall out, that the correspondent Number of the next Page over against it should differ therefrom a Centenary of years. As for Example: The Peloponnesian War (which happened in the year of the World 3519) was placed in the end of the second Cell, [Area] or Denary: Opposite thereto, in the same part of the following Page, was set down the Battel at Arbela, wherein Darius was subdued, and the Power was invested in Alexander; whence it appear'd, that there was the space of One Hundred years between the beginning of the Peloponnesian War, and the time wherein the Grecian Monarchy began. Julius Africanus an ancient Chronologer, and from him Eusebius do write, that the same Monarchy of the Greeks lasted 300 years, which by those Tables was found to be true; by turning over three Pages, till you come down to the Death of Cleopatra. Dionysius Halicarnassensis saith, that the Persian Kingdom was of a little more than 200 years durance, which was plainly perceived by those Tables, it being something more than two Pages distant from the Monarchy of the Greeks, which did ensue that of the Persians. So consequently one might mete out [as it were] and reckon up any other Intervals of Years by Pages, and distinguish the Series of those years, which being number'd either from the beginning of some Monarchy, or from some memorable Accident, (such as the Destruction of Troy, the Building or overthrow of the Temple at Jerusalem, &c.) or from some famous Monarch, (such as Augustus, Constantine the Great, Charles the Great, &c.) do yield very great Light, as to the Disposition of Historical Series, and the retaining of the Intervals or Distances of the Times in Memory. After the same manner, the Intervals were distinguished by Lines interpos'd to every Tenth Year; the half of each which Division pointed out a Quinquagenary [or Number of Five years.] Forasmuch as the Date of the years of Christ did precisely fall out in the middle of a Page; (for so our Authour did for the nonce dispose the years of the World by Denaries or Tens) therefore the Centenaries of our Christian Era, were accounted from the middle of the Page, that by this means, the Date of the World might suit very well with the Christian Epoch; albeit the true time of Christ his Nativity did anticipate a few years, as hereafter shall be declared. But now we thought fit to continue this Chronological Work in another Form or Model, wherein each Page [or Leaf] should be answerable to its opposite in Fifty years complete; that it might be rendred a Volume proportionable to other Books, be the more conveniently carried up and down, and withall prove equally commodious [as to its Use]; whereas it was formerly printed together with Geographical Tables, Ortelius his Theatre of the World, and other Books of a larger Size.

This one thing is to be heeded, as well in this as in the former Editions, [viz.] that in the Four first Pages, we make our Progression by every Tenth year only, omitting the Units [or singular distribution of years, lest the Reader should be cumber'd with so many Leaves void of History, for that in those Times, (especially before the Flood) nothing, worthy of our Belief, was upon Record, Sacred History excepted.

II.

Of the Epochæ, or Dates of Time, from which years are accounted.

I Have endeavoured to set down the Epochæ or Æraes of greatest note; as also many others, though more seldom used, and to compare them together at large: To the end, that whatever Historical Authours any one should meet with, he might be enabled to adjust them to the very same Æraes they make use of, and to refer them to the years of the World; excepting that I have passed by the Turkish Æra, called Hegira, and the Persian, call'd Fezdegird, &c. for that they are Lunar years, and cannot be rightly accommodated to the Julian years which are Solar, in such a Series or Continuation of complete years. But in general, I forewarn the Reader, not to precipitate his Judgment in his collation of Æraes one with the other; but, in the first place, most carefully to consider, at what time the year, applicable to each of them, doth commence. For 'tis not to be suppos'd, that every Æra doth begin on the Calends [or first day] of January. For, the Julian Account, the Julian years, as also the Christian Æra, do commence on the Calends of January: But other Dates begin their years in February, or March, or April, &c. or else they vary throughout the whole year, as do the Nabonassarean and Philippean Æraes. Which different beginnings of divers Epochæ, any one may perceive that they ought by all means thoroughly to be heeded in the collation of years.

In the mean time let this be observed, that all things be refer'd to our Form of the Julian year, and the Order of the Months. Thus Christ's Passion, which befell in the 4th year of the 202d Olympiad, is (according to the Julian Account) set down to the year of the World 3982, to which the 203d Olympiad is applicable,

An Introduction to the ensuing Body of Chronology.

cable, as it commenceth in the Month of August; whereas in the same Julian year, (in the Month of April, wherein our Saviour's Passion happened) the 4th year of the 202d Olympiad was yet unexpired. But of each of these, and the time of their beginning, in particular.

Here follow the Beginnings of the several Æraes, which ought carefully to be regarded, in the comparing of Histories.

The ÆRA of the WORLD's Creation.

THE two principal Æraes, to which all the matters in these Tables do appertain; are From the Creation of the World, and From the Birth of Christ. Touching the Beginning of the World, as to the Time of the year, there are divers Opinions. Our Tables, according to Scaliger's Judgment, do begin the years of the World at Autumn, or in the Month of October; in such manner, as that (the year of the World being applied to the Julian year) they may be understood to commence in the Month of October of the preceding Julian year, and to determine in the same Month of the present year [for the time being.] It matters not in what Month any one shall think the World was created; however in an accurate Chronological Account, there must on necessity a certain Term be established, that the years may rightly be compared together.

The Julian Account, (a most artificial Æra, introduc'd by Scaliger, not without the President of an ancient Authour, and approv'd. of by the learned of this Age) complies with our usual form of the Julian year. 'Tis made up of the two Cycles of the Sun and Moon, and the Indiction. The Cycle of the Sun, (as 'tis well known) is accomplished in the space of 28 years, in which Number of years the movable Feasts or Week-days return to their primitive Order. The Use of it is, by the Dominical Letter, to shew the Series or orderly Course of the Feasts or Holy-days in every Week, throughout the whole year. It was devised by reason of the Leap-year; because every fourth year, the Series of the Festival-days is confounded, which at the end of seven Intercalar or Leap-years, will return to its right Course or Order. The Cycle of the Moon is completed in the term of 19 years, in which space of time the New-moons do return almost in the same Order as before: It is otherwise called, the Cycle of 19 years, likewise, the Golden Number, by reason of the excellent Use thereof, in the finding out of the New-moons throughout the year, as also Movable Feasts. The Indiction doth comprehend the space of 15 years. Which three things, whereas they concur in this Period, do in such manner point out, fix and determine the year whereunto they are applied by an infallible Characterism or Distinction, that it cannot possibly be confounded with another. Nor can it fall out within the space of 7980 years, that these three [viz. the two Cycles and the Indiction] should meet together in one year. Notwithstanding the Cycle of 19 years was not found out by Meton till the time of the Peloponnesian War, and the Indiction instituted a long time after that by Constantine the Great; yet nothing prohibits, but that those Characters, by reason of their notable Use, were applied also to preceding years. We have set down in our Tables, the Cycle both of the Sun and Moon to each year, where there was room in the Page.

The Jewish Period, (that most artificial Epocha of the Jews) was fram'd by Rabbi Hillel Hannasi, about the year of Christ 344; which the Jews use at this very time for the Date of the World's Creation, but falsely. For this Epocha is not Historical, but merely Artificial and Astronomical, suited to the Course of the Moon, New-moons and Jewish Feasts or Holydays; and is of far later standing than the beginning of the World. It begins in Autumn. See Scaliger's Canons, p. 277. &c.

The years from the Israelites departure out of Egypt, and from the Building of the Temple at Jerusalem, are to be understood as to commence at the Spring-tide; viz. the former at April, the latter at May, as appears out of Exodus 12. and 1 Kings 6.

The Years of Jubile and Sabbath, have their procedure from the Number Seven. For every Seventh is a Sabbatical year beginning at Autumn; and the seven times seventh (i. e. the 49th) according to Scaliger's Opinion, is a Jubilean year, whom see more at large, as also Calvisius. These Epochaes lasted from the time that the Israelites possessed the Land of Canaan, to the Destruction of Jerusalem. But the Jews do make use of them to this very day.

The years from the Destruction of Troy do commence in the Month of June, and on the 16th Day, as Scaliger writeth out of Ephorus. In our Tables, you must understand that the first year doth run down to the 16th of June, inasmuch as that it begins in June of the preceding year. We often meet with this Epocha in profane Authours. Diodorus doth deduce it to the times of the third Monarchy.

Nabonassar's Date. Its upper end or beginning doth wander and vary throughout the whole year, untill that after the space of 1461 years, it returneth to its first limit. For they are equal years, consisting of 365 days, without the intercalation or taking in of the odd hours.

Therefore 1461 Nabonassarean years, do make 1460 Julian years. Otherwise they are called Egyptian years; also the Date Nabonnagarn, by Censorinus and Varro. They are frequently made use of by Ptolemy, who brings them down to his time in the Reign of Antonine the Emperour. Moreover Censorinus continues them to his time, viz. the year of Christ 238. After that, a certain anonymous Hebrew Authour makes mention of these years in the year of Christ 1191. And the Alfonsine Tables in the year of Christ 1252. &c.

Of the Disposition and Use of this Systeme: or,

The first year of Nabonassar begins on the 26th of February, from thence every fourth year it goes back one day by reason the intercalation [or odd hours in every of the four years] is omitted. Therefore the 104th Nabonassarean year commenceth at the last day of January.

The	{	229th 351st 471st 590th 716th 840th 964th	Year begins on the last day of	{	Decemb.	}	The mean or intervening years do retain their Beginning in the same Month onely by varying the Days according to their quadriennial Regress, as aforesaid.

The Olympiads take their Beginning from the New-moon about the Summer Solstice in the Month of July. Which New-moon did always fall out in the beginning of the first Olympiadick year. On the New-moon following the Olympick Prize was celebrated, which according to the diversity of the place was named Olympiad or Olympian Game, in Elis [a City of Peloponnesus]; the Pythian Game, among the Phocensians; the Isthmian Game, in Isthmus; and the Nemean Game in Greece between Phlius and Cleona. Upon the sixteenth day judgment was passed touching the Victory, as Pindar's Scholiast tells us. As for the reason or account of these years, Scaliger writes more at large in his Amendment of the times. Every Olympiad contains four years, from whence it is called Tetracteteris, or the space of four years.

The Æra of Iphitus, is nothing else but a Collection of the Olympiadick years. Forasmuch as Ten Olympiads do comprise 40 years: Therefore the first year of the eleventh Olympiad, is the forty first year of Iphitus. 'Tis so called from Iphitus, the renewer of the Olympick Games, which being aforesaid instituted by Pelops and Hercules, were discontinued for many years. Both these Æraes are the Basis or Foundation of Greek History very frequently made use of by Greek and Latin Authours, and lasteth down to the time of Censorinus. Socrates also the Church-Historian maketh use of the Olympiadick Æra, but a little differently from the ancient Writers. Of which matter see Scaliger's Amendment of the Times.

The years of Rome, or from the Building of the City of Rome, begin at the 21st day of April, as Solinus testifies, Chap. 2.

Daniel's Seventy Weeks I have set down after a two-fold Account, that the truth might so much more plainly appear. Scaliger's 70 Weeks do commence at Autumn; out of Haggai chap. 1. Funccius his 70 Weeks begin at Spring, out of Esdras chap. 7.

Calippus his Periods are made up of 4 of Meton's Cycles consisting of 19 years; and do begin at the 28th of June, on the New-moon of the Summer Solstice, which next ensued the Overthrow of Darius, and the Victory of Alexander at Arbela or Gaugamela. They are often cited by Ptolemy. The 3 Calippick Periods being at an end, Hipparchus fram'd a new Period or Account consisting of 4 Calippicks.

Philippean years are reckoned from the Death of Alexander, and are altogether of the same form or frame as are the Nabonassarean years. For the 425th year of Nabonassar is the first Philippean year after the Death of Alexander, commencing with the same Nabonassarean year on the 12th of November. In our Tables we have placed the first Philippean year to the Calends of January for the year following, not expiring till the Month of November, for the more commodious comparing of the Nabonassarean years therewith. Ptolemy makes use of these Philippean years; as also Clemens Alex. Eusebius, Censorinus, the said Hebrew-writer of whom before; and Alphonsus in his Tables, &c. likewise Albategnius.

The Æra of the Chaldeans, or of Babylon, is made mention of in Calisthenes his Epistles written to Aristotle, at the time when Alexander took Babylon in the 1903d year of its Æra. The beginning of this Æra fell out in the 18th year of Semiramis, if you reckon backwards, according to Africanus; but about the beginning of the Assyrian Kingdom, according to Diodorus. This is all I can find touching this Date.

The Date of the Seleucidæ is not of one sort onely. Authours do remark a three-fold beginning thereof. Therefore the years of the Seleucidæ are;

1. The Jewish; beginning at the 13th of March in Spring-tide. This is made use of in the first of Maccabees and Josephus. 'Tis called by the Jews Minian Staros, i. e. The Æra or Date of Contracts.

2. The Alexandrian or Antiochene; beginning at Autumn. 'Tis us'd by Astronomers, the Arabians. Albategnius names it Terich Dhalikarnaim, i. e. Æra Dicerotis, viz. of Alexander. The Arabians begin this Account at October.

3. The Chaldaic years take their beginning in the Spring succeeding; to wit, in such manner, that the Antiochene years begin precisely as a mean betwixt the Jewish and the Chaldean years. Ptolemy makes use of the Chaldaic years, also the second Book of Maccabees. They are called likewise Macedonic years. See Scaliger's Canons, p. 294.

The Egyptian Æra of Dionysius, doth begin on the 25th of March. It concurs with the beginning of Philadelphus his Reign, whenas he was proclaimed King in his Father's life-time. Ptolemy sometimes useth this; and the Son of Sirach (according to the Opinion of some) in his Preface.

The Æra of the Maccabees, from the Priesthood of Judas Maccabæus and the repurgation of the Temple to the taking of Jerusalem, consists of 126 years, after the reckoning of Josephus, whereas indeed they are 127 years. Its beginning was on the twenty fourth day of November, or Chisleu. There is another Date of the Hasmonæi, counted from the first year of Simon, 1 Maccab. ch. 13. But since that no Presidents of it are extant in Histories, save the time of its beginning, we have purposely omitted it.

An Introduction to the ensuing Body of Chronology.

The Æra of the Tyrians is set down by Eusebius to the year of Christ 277. Also by the Council of Chalcedonia. See Scaliger's Canons, pag. 295. I find nothing more of it.

The Antiochene Date, counted from the time that Freedom was restored to the City, began 48 years before the Christian Æra. 'Tis to be found twice in Eusebius, viz. in the second year of Probus, and 19th year of Diocletian. 'Tis often used by Evagrius; also by Cedrenus and Nicephorus.

The Julian year, to wit, From the Correction of the Calendar by Julius Cæsar; begins, as doth the Julian Account, at the Calends [i. e. the first day] of January.

The Spanish Æra begins also on the Calends of January. For it differs from the Julian Date, excepting that it was brought into Spain six years later. 'Tis frequent in the Tomes of Councils, and old Monuments of Spain, and bears the downright name of the Æra [or Date] of Spain. It was laid aside in Arragon in the 1358th year of Christ; in Castille, in the 1383d year of Christ; in Portugal, in the year 1415. at which time it became wholly extinct. See Scaliger's Amendment of Times.

The Years after Cæsar's Murther, begin on the Ides [or 15th] of March. They continued not long: As neither did the Years reckoned from his Consulship on the first of August, which commence on the 22d day of September.

There is a two-fold Æra of the Victory at Actium. The one reckoned from the Fight at the Promontory of Actium, on the 2d of September, as Dio and Xiphilinus do count: The other from the taking of Alexandria and Death of Cleopatra, which happened on the 29th of August in the following year, almost a whole year after the Fight at Actium. This Æra is made use of by Ptolemy, Josephus, Eusebius, Censorinus. It was abolished in the time of Diocletian by means of his Æra. Scaliger writes in his Canons that this latter was called the Æra of the August Gods.

The Years of the August Gods, or Augustan years, begin at the 14th day of February, when Octavius was surnamed, by the Senate, Augustus. Notwithstanding they are suppos'd to have the same commencement with the Julian years. You may find them in Censorinus, but nowhere else.

The Æra of the Laodiceans, the Edessenes, and the Ascalonitæ, are set down by Eusebius to the year of Christ 277. I can find no more Examples of them.

The CHRISTIAN ÆRA, [or Date of Time from the Nativity of our most Blessed Lord and Saviour JESUS CHRIST] takes its beginning at the Calends of January, according to the Supputation of Dionysius Exiguus a Monk, who lived in the time of Justinian the Emperour. For he supposed, according to the vulgar Opinion, that Christ was born on the 25th day of December; so that the eighth day after his Birth design'd for his Circumcision, did precisely fall out on the Calends of January, whereon he grounded the commencement of the Christian Æra. But the most learned Men of our Age, (and namely Scaliger above all the rest) have discovered, that this Date of Dionysius, (which from the time of Justinian, being entertain'd almost throughout the whole Christian World, hath hitherto been in request) is placed to later years than it ought to be. Which defect or mistake Scaliger determines to be the space of almost two years; that is to say, in such sort as that the first year of the Christian Æra is truly the third after the Nativity of Christ, and so forward. He hath set down the Birth of Christ to be about the beginning of October, by a most ingenious Argument or Reason drawn from the order or course of the diurnal High-Priests, and the Nativity of S. John the Baptist; to which the circumstance of Time in S. Luke, touching the Shepherds watching in the Fields by Night, at the time of our Saviour's Birth, doth very well agree. See Scaliger's Amendment of Times, and his Preface to his Canons; see also Calvinus.

But not long after Sullyga a Polander, making farther search into the lately discovered Error of the Dionysian Æra, he defined it to full four years. Yea, there is one who hath attempted to reduce it to five years. So that now it may well seem no wonder, that there have been so many years mistaken in the determination of the Christian Æra. The aforesaid Authours do understand that place in Luke 3. v. 1. and 23. [not knowingly] but [σχεμα] by way of conjecture, so as that Christ was undoubtedly 32 or 33 years of Age in the 15th year of Tiberius his Reign, because the Particle ὡς doth not positively determine the 30th year. Concerning which matter let every one pass what judgment he please.

The Capitoline Prizes instituted by Domitian, in imitation of the Olympiads, begin on the Calends of January. Mention is made thereof by Suetonius, Clemens Alexandrinus, Censorinus, and the old Coin of Domitian. Onufr.

As touching the Encenia or Anniversary Feasts of the City of Constantinople, Authours do not rightly agree. Nicephorus placeth these Encenia to the 28th year of Constantine's Reign: (it ought to be the 332d of the Christian Æra) So Cassiodorus. Marian. Scotus puts it to the time of the Consulship of Pacatianus and Mecilius Hilarianus, being the 5th Indiction. Suidas (as is alledged) doth reckon 362 years from the Reign of Augustus or the Victory at Actium. But the Greek Aldine Copy hath περ. peradventure τξ. 360 should be read instead of it. Cedrenus and Zonaras have set down the 2d Anniversary to the 11th of May, in the 3d Indiction, which was in the 330th year of Christ. So Marcellinus Comes writeth, that on the 5th Indiction, Mavortius being Consul, (which was the 527th year of Christ) was celebrated the 197th Anniversary-Feast of the City of Constantinople. See also Scaliger's Amendment of the Times; and his Preface to the Canons. Onufrius hath placed it to the year of Christ 331. This Æra is seldom made use of.

Of the Disposition and Use of this Systeme: or,

The Æra of Diocletian begins on the 29th day of August in the 284th year of Christ. 'Tis likewise called the Æra of the Coptitæ, i. e. of Martyrs; as also the year of Grace. S. Ambrose, Epiphanius, Evagrius, Beda, and Herm. Contractus use it. In the year of Christ 532. (when the Dionysian Date began to be known) it was for the most part out of use: But 'tis used by the Christian People of Africk and Ethiopia to this very day.

The Æra of Indictions, whose Revolution is at the end of every fifteen years, begins at the 24th day of September. The first Indiction commenceth in the 312th year of Christ, on the 24th day of September, and so continueth untill the 24th day of September in the year of Christ 313. and so forward. It was instituted by Constantine the Great; but as to the cause or reason of its Institution Authors disagree. 'Twas of common use amongst Greek as well as Latin Historians, after Constantine's Death. The Pontifical Indictions, do commence at the 25th of December, that they may very nigh suit with the beginning of the Julian years.

Hegira, the Æra of the Arabians, or the Turkish Date, begins on the 16th day of July in the 622d year of Christ. It consists of Lunar years. It is made use of in the Annals of the Turks and Saracens, in the Alcoran, and Turkish Epistles.

Æra Jezdegird, or Persian Æra, begins on the 16th of June in the year of Christ 632. This also is made up of Lunar years. Alfraganus, the Alcoran, and the Arabians &c. make mention of it.

The Æra of the World, according to the Greeks, is altogether false, and therefore omitted by us. But it may be of some use in the Histories of the modern Greek Writers since our Saviour's Birth. For if you subtract 5508 from the Grecian Æra, it will give the year of the Christian Æra down to the Month of September. As for example, the Emperour Constantine had the whole Government to himself in the 6433d year of the Grecian Æra of the World, that is to say, in the year of Christ 945. then beginning. These years have their beginning in Autumn. 'Tis us'd by Cedrenus, Nicephorus, Zonaras, the Muscovitish Chronology; also by the Churches of the Eastern parts of the World and of Ethiopia. See Scaliger's Canons, p. 274, 275.

These Æraes are thus more briefly set down, according to the order of the Julian Months.

Years from the Death of Cæsar. March the 8th. Also Daniel's 70 Weeks, according to Funcius his Opinion.

Years of the Departure of the Israelites out of Egypt. April the 15th.
Years from the Bulding of Rome.

Years of the Temple at Jerusalem, do begin at the 6th of May.
Anniversary Feasts of Constantinople, begin on the 11th of May.

Years from the Destruction of Troy, on 22d of June.
Calippick Periods begin on the 28th of June.

The Olympiads, and Æra of Iphitus, do begin at the New-moon, on what day soever it befalls.

The Victory at Actium; to wit, when Alexandria was taken, being on the 29th of August.
The Æra of Dioclesian doth begin on the 29th of August.

The Alexandrian or Antiochene Æra of the Seleucidæ.
Years from the Consulship of Augustus, they begin at the 22d of September.
Also the Victory at Actium, after another account, at the 2d of September.
The Indictions begin on the 24th of September; as also do
The 70 Weeks of Daniel, and
The Grecian Æra of the World.

The Years of the World.
Years of Jubile and Sabbath.
The Jewish Period.
The Alexandrian Æra of the Seleucidæ, as the Arabians do make use of it.

The Æra of the Maccabees, from the Repurgation of the Temple, beginneth on the 24th of November.

The beginning of the rest of the Æraes, doth either vary and wander throughout the whole year; (as do the Nabonassarean, the Philippean, Hegira, Jezdegird, &c.) or else it is not known. As touching other Epochaes of Wars or Kingdoms, I have treated of their Beginnings in the Tables themselves, so far forth as I could find them out.

An Introduction to the ensuing Body of Chronology.

III.

Of Kingdoms and Dynasties.

I Have carefully collected the principal Kingdoms and Empires, which we read of in History to have flourished in a certain Series, from the Creation of the World down to these times; and have divided them into Dynasties (whereby I mean the notable mutations or changes in a Kingdom, either of Families or of Civil Government) in imitation of Scaliger on Manethos; I have also set forth the Original and manner of each Dynasty, from its very first Rise or Beginning, and should have treated thereof more largely, had I not wanted room. It was my chief Desire and Endeavour to adjust all the Families and Dynasties of the Princes who swayed the Roman German Empire, after the same method, but the narrowness of the Page prevented me.

As touching the Egyptian Dynasties in our Systeme; we have declared, that they do far exceed the Epocha of the World's Creation. Yet, forasmuch as Manethos hath copied them out of the Egyptian Records, in a continued Series from their first Origine, and whereas it plainly appears, that the same Kingdom hath been of very long standing, there is good reason why all their Dynasties should be reckoned up in a General Chronological Systeme, for the conservation of this Monument of Antiquity, even as Scaliger, for that cause, hath thought it requisite to attribute thereto a new Period or Circuit of Time, which doth anticipate the Date of the World. It is a parallel case, touching the Dynasties of the Assyrians, which [are suppos'd to] precede the Universal Deluge. As for the Archons or Magistrates of Athens, I add, that their Years and Governance, from the time of the Olympiads, are computed according to the account of the Olympiadick Years; that is to say, so as to begin in the Month of July. For which reason, whereas the Series of the preceding Athenian Dynasties, did not accord with the beginning of Charops the first Archon for Ten Years, and the Second Year of Æschylus, wherein the Olympiads began; I presumed to put in an Interregnum of One Year; to wit, betwixt the last year of Codrus the last King of Athens, and the beginning of Medon the first Archon for term of Life. In which place so to doe, it seemed very convenient, nor did I this without an Example. We may likewise consider, after what manner the preceding Kings of Athens ought to be put in order, so as the first year of Demophoon may fall out upon the very first year of the Destruction of Troy; which years Clement doth make to concur, as an old Authour writeth. I was unwilling to attempt farther, without having an ancient Writer for my President, nor did it indeed become me so to doe: For on that account Scaliger did, not without cause, so sharply reprove Eusebius.

In some places I have set down a twofold Series of the self-same Kingdom or Dynasty, out of different Authours; as you may see by the Judges of the Hebrews, the Atride, the Eighteenth Government among the Egyptians, the West-Goths, &c. that by thus applying of them, any one may judge which of them is most agreeable with the Truth. Moreover, I will here make a collection of the principal Kings of whom mention is made in the Sacred History of the Old Testament, that you may understand how nearly Heathen History doth accord with Holy Writ. Pharaoh of the Egyptians, (a common name of Kings) Exodus, chap. 1. and so following till you come to the 12th chap. Shishak in the time of Solomon and Rehoboam, 1 Kings 11. 40. Zerah, King of Ethiopia, subdued by Asa, 2 Chron. 14. 12. So or Sua [King of Egypt] in the time of Hezekiah and Holhea, 2 Kings 17. 4. Tirhakah [King of Ethiopia] in the days of Isaiah, Isa. 37. 9. Necho [King of Egypt] who kill'd Josiah, 2 King. 23. 29. and 2 Chron. 35. 23. Herodotus, B. 2. num. 67. Apries or Hophra, [King of Egypt] Jerem. 44. 30. Josephus likewise maketh mention of one Vaphres in the Reign of Solomon. Tiglath-Pilneser, King of Assyria, 2 Kings 15. 29. Phul, [or Pul] King of Assyria, 2 Kings 15. 19. Shalmaneser, [King of Assyria] 2 Kings 17. 3. Sennacherib, [King of Assyria] in the time of Hezekiah, 2 Kings 18. 13. Herodotus, B. 2. num. 63, 64. Merodach, [King of Babylon] 2 Kings 20. 12. Nabopolassar's 30th year, Ezekiel 1. 1. Nebuchodonosor, [King of Babylon] in many places. Evil-merodach, [King of Babylon] 2 Kings 25. 27. Succeeding Kings [of Babylon] spoken of by Daniel. Hiram, King of Tyre, 1 Kings 5. 1. Ethbaal, [King of the Zidonians] 1 Kings 16. 31. Kings of Persia recorded by Daniel, Esdras, Haggai, Zechariah. In Holy Writ there is mention made of the Kings of Assyria; but [little or] nothing of those is to be found in profane History.

IV.

Of Famous Men.

Forasmuch as the Synchronism of Famous Men, renowned either for their Vertues or their Villanies, doth very much promote a sound knowledge in History; I have set apart a peculiar Column for such of them who could not be comprehended in the account of Kings or Dynasties; and to each of them have adjoyned the Names of the Authours, out of whom it may be made to appear, that they were living at that same time which they are set down to. And that all things might be put in a more distinct Order, in the Affairs of the Church, I have separated the Fathers from the Hereticks; and in the later Ages, I have distinguished other Seets or Professions; as for Example,

Of the Disposition and Use of this Systeme : or,

Example, Lawyers are placed in a particular Column by themselves, asunder from that of Physicians and Philosophers. All which (together with the Laws of the Romans) I have extracted out of Val. Forsterus his History of the Civil Law; but have not assigned any Authours to them, for that they do all appertain to one onely. In the Last Century, I have chiefly made use of the tedious Annals of Aug. Brunius. The Rabbins are for the most part taken out of Seder Olam and Zemach David. If any of the Ancients are omitted, (as for those of the present Age they are sufficiently well known) it was either because I could not find out the certain time they liv'd in; or else for that they left nothing very memorable to Posterity; or, to conclude, they did escape my Diligence, which (in so great a number and variety of Persons, and in so large a circuit of Time) no body will wonder at.

V.

Apposite Histories.

THE collation of Epochæ alone will not suffice, unless the Principal Histories (as it were the end or Boundaries of a Chronological Systeme) be withall adjoyned: Therefore I have applied them in some places more at large, where the space of the Page would admit it, in other places I have contracted. For no man will expect an account of all Histories in these small Tables, since that is a Work befitting huge Volumes. Wherefore we are content to mark out, (as it were with a Finger) in a word or two whereon the other Particulars do depend, the Histories of greatest note wherein Universal History is comprized. No man will blame us, for that we have not set down all those we designed, if he do but consider that we were confin'd to the form or limit of the Page, and that many things, which we had already assigned, were with great tediousness many times taken out for the sake of the Prefs. Yet however, the names of Kings, Emperours and other Famous Men will guide us to the true Series of History.

VI.

The Names of Authours.

NOT without good reason doth Scaliger blame Eusebius as to this point; in that he hath not put to the Names of the Authours from whom he hath transcribed the Histories in his Chronicle: For that merits not our Belief, which standeth in need of an Authour. Therefore have I taken care to add the Authour's name to every famous Act, Exploit, [or Accident] in such places as I could, and where it seemed needfull to be done; and should have been much more exact, could I obtain so great a number of Authours Names as so large a Subject doth require. But I was oftentimes fain to give credit to the Quotations of another.

VII.

Eclipses.

Eclipses (those infallible Characters) are the very Bases and Muniments of Chronology. Wherefore that they may be plainly perceived in these Tables, (whereas otherwise their place would not be conspicuous) I have put them in the first Column to the year of the World, with the marks used for the Sun ☉ and Moon ☾, according as it is recorded by Authours for a Solar or Lunar Eclipse. And here I briefly do present to thy view, after the Supputation of Calvisius and others, such of them as tend to a furtherance in Chronology, together with the names of the Authours.

- 106 From the First general Council held at Nice, and 50 years from the Second general Council held at Constantinople to the Third general Council held at Ephesus, Cedr. Antiochus and Bassus being Consuls, Socrat. B. 7. c. 34. in the year of Christ 431. Cuspin, out of Jornandes.
- 207 From the beginning of Diocletian's Reign to the beginning of Anastasius his Reign, Evagrius B. 3. c. 29. And from the beginning of Augustus his Reign 532 years 7 months.
- 192 Years the Macedonians did bear sway, Justin. B. 33. at the latter end: to wit, from the time of King Philip Father to Alexander the Great.

Joseph Scaliger hath collected some remarkable Fragments of Chronology in his Appendage to Eusebius his Greek Tract, which were taken out of old Authours, among which Eratosthenes his Description of the Times is one.

Of the Disposition and Use of this Systeme: or,

- 80 Years from the taking of Troy to the return of the Heraclidæ into Peloponnesus.
- 60 From thence to the taking of Ionia.
- 159 From thence to the Protection of Lycurgus.
- 108 From thence to the year before the Olympiads.
- 297 From thence to the time when Xerxes passed the Hellespont.
- 48 From thence to the beginning of the Peloponnesian War.
- 27 From thence to the taking of Athens by Lyfander.
- 34 From thence to the Fight at Leuctra.
- 35 From thence to the Death of King Philip, and the Reign of Alexander the Great.
- 12 From thence to the Death of Alexander.

Briefly thus; From the taking of Troy to the first Olympiad 407 years. From the first Olympiad to the Death of Alexander 453 years. In all, from the taking of Troy to the Death of Alexander the Great 860 years. Thus much Eratosthenes upon Clement.

Another Fragment in the same Authour, taken out of an old Chronological Treat. From Deucalion's Flood to the burning of Ida, and the Dactyli Idæi 73 years. From thence to the time when Ganymedes was snatch'd up into Heaven 65 years. From thence to Perseus his Expedition 15 years. From thence to the Building of Troy 34 years. From thence to the Argonautick Expedition 64 years. From thence to the killing of the Minotaure by Theseus 32 years. From thence to the Theban War 10 years. From thence to the first Olympick Agon or Prize of Hercules 3 years. From thence to the Rape of Helena by Theseus 9 years. From thence to the time when Hercules was canonized 11 years. From thence to the Rape of Helena by Paris 4 years. From thence to the taking of Troy 10 years. From thence to the Building of Lavinium by Æneas 10 years. From thence to the Reign of Ascanius 8 years. From thence to the return of the Heraclidæ 61 years. From thence to the first Olympiad of Iphitus 328 years. In short; From the Destruction of Troy to the Olympiads 407 years. In all, from Deucalion's Flood to the first Olympiad 737 years.

Olympiad years.

Epochæ of the Olympiads.

- 7 1 The City of ROME was built in the first year of Charops Archon of Athens, Dionysius Halicarnass. B. 1. Solinus very often, ch. 2. by bringing in some testimonies and arguments. Clement of Alexandria, Strom. 1. Sext. Aurelius, on Augustus his Reign, Cedrenus, M. Portius Cato, &c. And these Astronomers, Reinhold, Copernicus, Stadius, Scaliger. This Sentence is so to be understood as that three months of the preceding fourth year of the sixth Olympiad be accounted, viz. from the 21st day of April, whereon the first Palilia or Rome-Feast was kept, to the 27th day of July. Some do assign the whole preceding fourth year of the sixth Olympiad, and so do anticipate one whole year, as do Terence, Varro, Verr. Flaccus, Corn. Tacitus, Dio Cassius, Censorinus, Pliny and Gellius. It matters not which opinion one follows, provided the different way of Authours in the application of it be observed. Our Systeme is accommodated to the opinion of Dionysius: Scaliger hath done the like.

Vellejus Paterculus is too much out of the way, whilst that he assigneth the beginning of Rome to the 3d year of the 6th Olympiad. Doubtless the occasion of his mistake was, that the City's beginning did anticipate the Olympiadick year 3 months. Howbeit Cicero and Pomp. Atticus are of the same opinion, as Gellius relates.

- 9 2 The first War of the Lacedemonians with the Messenii began, which was ended in the first year of the 14th Olympiad, Pausan. B. 4. And the 39th year after that was the 4th year of the 23d Olympiad, it being the first year of the second War, Pausan.
- 16 3 Numa Pompilius began to reign, Dion. B. 2. Solin. c. 2.
- 14 3 Is the 867th year from the building of Athens, and first year of the Athenian Democracy, Sigon.
- 27 2 Tullus Hostilius began to reign, Dion. B. 3.
- 23 4 The second War of the Laconians with the Messenii, which was ended in the first year of the 28th Olympiad, Pausan. B. 4.
- 35 2 Ancus Martius began to reign, Dionys. B. 3.
- 50 4 Servius Tullus began to reign, Dionys. B. 4.
- 55 1 Cyrus began to reign, Diod. Sicul. Thallus, Castor, Polybius, Phlegon, Trallian. Africanus, Tatian. Clemens Alexandr. Cyrill. B. 1. against Julian. Euseb. S. Hierome. Daniel 9. (more than half a year being elapsed) as appeareth by the Characters of the Eclipses.
- 63 3 Cambyfes took Egypt, Diod. Sicul. B. 2. Eusebius's Chron. which is the fifth year of Cambyfes, Eusebius's Chron.
- 64 4 Darius Hystaspes began his Reign, Euseb. B. 10. Prep. and in the Preface to his Chronology, and in the Chronological Treatise it self.
- 68 1 Is the 245th year from the building of Rome, at which time, Kingly Government being depos'd, the City was ruled by Consuls, Dion. B. 1. and 5. Livy B. 1. Eutrop. B. 1.
- 75 1 beginning, Xerxes passed over into Greece; Diod. B. 11. Dionys. B. 9. Pausan. 6. Eliac. Clem. Strom. 1.
- 78 4 Xerxes was slain, Diod. B. 11. Euseb. Chron.

The sum is thus reckon'd, 80 years to the Return of the Heraclidæ into Peloponnesus; from thence 60 years to the taking of Ionia; from thence 159 years to the Protection of Lycurgus; from thence to the year preceding the Olympiads 108 years, Clem. out of Eratosthenes.*

An Introduction to the ensuing Body of Chronology.

432 From the Destruction of Troy to the Building of Rome, Dionys. B. 1. Solinus hath 433 years; so also Messala Corvinus, M. Varro, Strabo; but Eusebius, and Cyrillus Beda do count 430 years. Paterculus, who hath set down 437 years, is grossly mistaken.

873 to the 2d year of the 117th Olympiad, Diod. B. 19.
866 to the beginning of Agathocles King of Sicily his Reign, Diod. B. 19. which began in the 3d year of the 115th Olympiad.

780 to the 2d year of the 94th Olympiad, Diod. B. 14. which is the 28th year of the Peloponnesian War, when Dionysius the Tyrant of Sicily was banished, and 30 Tyrants were constituted at Athens, Xenophon, B. 2.

Examples of Sabbatical years.

THE year wherein Jerusalem was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar was a Sabbatical year, Jer. 34. v. 16. The year wherein Herod took Jerusalem was a Sabbatical year, Joseph. B. 14. c. 28.

The

Of the Disposition and Use of this Systeme: or,

The year when Antiochus Eupator besieged Jerusalem was a year of Sabbath, 1 Maccab. 6: v. 49. Joseph. B. 12. c. 14.

The year wherein Simon Maccabæus was slain by Ptolemy his Son-in-law was a Sabbatical year, Jos. B. 13. c. 14.

The year of Christ 1189. was a year of Sabbath among the Jews, in which very many were killed at the Coronation of King Richard of England, who was crown'd in the year 1188. about the latter end of August, the Sabbatical year of the Jews being now at hand as to begin in September, Matth. Paris. The Sabbatical years in the Christian Æra are thus found out; add an unite or 1 and divide the Sum [or Number of the years of Christ] by 7, if nothing remain 'tis a Sabbatical year. The reason is, because the first year of the Christian Date is the second after a Sabbatical year. Or thus; Take the Cycle of the Sun for the year given, which if it be made up of the Number 7, it sheweth that in that same year a Sabbatical year doth begin; the reason is, that a whole Cycle doth consist of a Septenary or the Number 7. Now every Seventh year of this Cycle doth suit with the beginning of a Sabbatical year. Thus the year of Christ 1609. is a Jewish year of Sabbath, commencing at September of the preceding year 1608 (which had 21 for the Sun's Cycle) and during till September in the year 1609. For, albeit the years of Jubile do truly determine or cease at the last Destruction of Jerusalem, yet the Jews, being bewitched with a foolish hope of Restitution, do not give over still to reckon them.

An Introduction to the ensuing Body of Chronology.

These years { Indiction 2d.
Consulship of Grat. Aug. 3. and the Equitii. } do concur,
Valent. and Val. 10. (almost exact- Epiph.
90th of the Diocletian Date, conti- Anchonuing to the 29th of August) rat.

The year { 3d of Mahomet. Chalcond. } is the year of Indict. 1. Foscar in his Epist. } the taking of Æn. Sylvius. } Constantino-4th of Constantine, Chalcond. ple by the of Christ 1453. Mechov. Cranz. } Turks.

The 454th Nabonassarean year is the 36th of the first Calippic Period. Ptol. B. 7. c. 3.

The 67th Chaldaic year is the beginning of the 504th Nabonassarean (according to the Egyptian Account; but by the Julian Account 'tis the 503d from the beginning of Nabonassar's Date) Ptol. B. 9. c. 7.

The 486th Nabonassarean year is the 24th of Dionysius; and 62d of Philip from the Death of Alexander, Ptol. B. 9. c. 7.

The 476th Nabonassarean year doth concur with the 13 and $\frac{1}{2}$ of Philadelphus, Ptol. B. 10. c. 4.

The 45th Dionysian year doth concur with the 83d Philippean, and 507th Nabonassarean. And so from hence to the 2d year of the Emperour Antoninus (in the year of Christ 139.) 377 Nabonassarean years and 128 odd days are completed.

The 47th year of the first Calippic Period doth accord with the 465th year of Nabonassar; and the 48th Calippic Period doth concur therewith, Ptol. B. 7. c. 3.

The 50th of the first Calippic Period doth concur with the 44th Philippean (commencing) Ptol. B. 3. c. 2. And so from hence to the 3d year of Antonine the Emperour are 419 Nabonassarean years Ptol. in the same place.

The 13th year of Dionysius doth agree with the 52d Philippean, and 476th Nabonassarean, (commencing) Ptol. f. 281. printed at Basil.

The 28th of Dionysius doth accord with the 491st Nabonassarean, Ptol. B. 9. c. 7.

The 82d Chaldaic year (commencing) is the 519th Nabonassarean, Ptol. B. 11. c. 7, 8.

The 54th year of the 2d Calippic Period, is the 547th Nabonassarean, down to the end, Ptol. B. 4. c. 11.

The 145th Alexandrian year of the Seleucidæ is the beginning of the 153d Olympiad, wherein the Temple was profaned, Jos. B. 12. c. 6. 1 Maccab. 1.

The 32d of the 3d Calippic Period accordeth with the 177th Philippean. From thence to the 3d year of Antonine are 285 years, Ptol. B. 3. c. 2. The same 32d Calippic year agreeth with the 178th Philippean, Ptol. in the same place.

The 75th Chaldaic year is the 512th Nabonassarean commencing, Ptol. B. 9. c. 7.

The 37th year of the 3d Calippic Period concurs with the 607th Nabonassarean year. (For the 607th Nabonassarean year in that same year began in the month of October, which still runs on in the 38th Calippic year.) Ptol. B. 6. c. 5.

The 50th year of the 3d Calippic Period agreeth with the 619th Nabonassarean, Ptol. B. 5. c. 3.

The 1st year of the 207th Olympiad, is the 801st year after the building of the City of Rome, Veranius and Pompejus being Consuls. For so Solinus, Ch. 2. doth find it set down in the Publick Acts.

The 12th year of the Emperour Nero is the 2d year of Gessius Florus Ruler in Judea, and the beginning of the War of the Jews, Joseph. B. 20. c. 18. and 2 of the War of the Jews, Ch. 14. The same is the 17th year of Agrippa Junior, Jos. in the same place.

The 840th Nabonassarean year is the 12th of the Emperour Domitian, Ptol. B. 7. ch. 3.

The 845th Nabonassarean year is the 1st of Trajanus, Ptol. in the same place. The 1st year of Trajanus begins in the month of Janus, [or January] whereas in the foregoing year the 845th year of Nabonassar began in the month of July.

In the year of	{	Antiochene Æra, 325	}	The Heresie of the Manichees sprang up, Eusebius Chronicles.
		Tyrian Date, 402
		Laodiceans, 324
		Edeffenes, 588
		Ascalonitæ, 380
		Probus the Emperour 2

Every one hath doubtless accommodated the Rise or beginning of this pestiferous Doctrine to his own proper Æra, from the annotation of Christian Bishops, who were living in those days, as also for a memorial of the thing it self.

Notwithstanding, these things do fall out on the first year of the Emperour Probus, by an accurate Supputation of Emperours: Wherefore the preceding Epochæ seem not as to be taken for current years, but for exact ones, after this manner: Three hundred twenty five years after the restoring of Liberty or Freedom to Antioch; 402 years after that a Colony was withdrawn from the Tyrians, &c. not in the 325th year, &c. Nor can it be avoided but that the Antiochene Date alone doth hinder that the Epochæ themselves may be wrested to the 2d year of Probus, which cannot be denied but that it doth anticipate the Christian Æra 48 years, so as the 49th year thereof is the first year of the Christian Æra.

Examples of the Date of the Victory at Actium.

THE year of the Fight at Actium is the seventh year of Herod, Joseph. B. 16. c. 7.

The 37th year of the Victory at Actium is the 10th year of Archelaus, in which he was banished the Kingdom, and his Goods confiscated to Quirinus, Joseph. B. 18. ch. 1, 2. and 2d B. of the War 6.

Of the Disposition and Use of this Systeme, &c.

The reading of History will afford a larger supply of this nature, which any one may compare together with this Systeme; provided he do not lay hold on things suspected, or meanly approv'd of, for testimonies worthy of credit and belief, or do misapply them. We shall herein onely give a proof or short instance, such as it is.

Ἀρχαίον δὲ μοι ἔστι διακονιδάδου ἔργον, Hom. Il. &c.

For it is a difficult task for me to search into all things.

To conclude, the whole Systeme is framed after such manner, that every matter in each Page is referr'd to the first or principal number or account, which is either the year of the World (to the time of Christ his Birth) or the year of the Christian Æra (from the Nativity of Christ.) And each year in the beginning number is comprehended in a several Line. But wherefore am I so scrupulous about these small businesses. Let us come to our intended purpose, by God's assistance.

CHRONOLOGY.

The AGE of the PATRIARCHS.

Adam's AGE.		The AGE of the PATRIARCHS.				The Jewish Period.	The Julian Accompt.	Years before our Saviour's Birth.
From the World created in October.	1	T HE Creation of the WORLD, which is suppos'd to be made the Autumn preceding, was finish'd in seven days. On the sixth day ADAM, the first Man, was form'd out of the slime of the Earth, and EVE out of his Rib, in Paradise: The Fall of Mankind and Loss of Paradise; The good tidings concerning the Messias; Cain and Abel were begotten; Cain killed Abel, &c. Gen. 1, 2, 3, 4. Chap. ADAM lived 930 years, Gen. 5. v. 5. In the numbring of these years observe this Rule out of Josephus, Lib. 1. c. 5. We are not to mind how many years each Patriarch liv'd, but the time when he begat Children; and consequently the years of Generation are to be taken for complete ones: For the Chronology of ADAM doth evince that, who was aged 130 years when he begat SETH, and after that liv'd 800 years, in all 930 years. But for what reason I was willing that two thousand years should be contain'd in the first four Pages, whereas in other places each Page consists					467	764	3948

Another Supputation of the Assyrian Kingdom.	The MONARCHY of the ASSYRIANS.	The HISTORY of the PAGANS.	The Jewish Period.	The Julian Account. 	The Kingdom of the ASSYRIANS, the Third Government whereof Scaliger out of Africanus doth assign to the 2357th. year of the Julian Period. The other two by far exceeding the year of Inundation, I have omitted. 2357. Belus reigned 55 y.	The Figments of Suppositius Annianus, Berofus, Manethon, Metasthenes, Philo, &c. touching the Assyrian, Egyptian, Persian, and other Kingdoms, are long since exploded by the Learned.	1311	2264	2448	[*] As touching the Beginning of the Assyrian Kingdom; it is to be noted, that the same (even as of others in Ethnic History) is to be understood a posteriori, that is to say, from the Fall of Sardanapalus, and the first Reign of Arbaces the first King of the Medes. Now is Epochæ or Date is found out by the Beginning of Cyaxares, who began his Reign in the 24th. year of the 37th. Olympiad. Scal. Can. out of Diodorus, Eusebius. Therefore the Beginning of Cyaxares doth after this manner direct the Chronology as well of all the Kings of the Medes, both succeeding and preceding, as of the Assyrians; even to their very first Origine. And so it would prove a plain Style, should Historians agree touching the duration of the Assyrian Kingdom, and the Number of the Kings of Assyria. Out of many, we do principally propose two different kinds of Supputation. 1. The one is of Africanus, who doth recite out of old Authors all the Assyrian Kings, although that Series doth extend from before the Flood. Scaliger also doth follow his Example. 2. The other is of Justin, who indeed doth not rehearse all the Kings; but yet doth define or set down such a number of years as doth rarely well agree with the Scriptures, and Babylonian Era. For he says, out of Trogus Pompeius, that the Kingdom of the Assyrians stood 1300 years from the time of Ninus untill the Fall of Sardanapalus; to these add the 55 years of Belus the Father before Ninus, (or 65 years according to S. Augustine, Lib. 16. De Civit. Dei, cap. 17.) and you will have 1355, or 1365 years, and lastly arrive at the Beginning of the Babylonian Date, which makes its Rise, A. M. 1717, or 1718, or of the Julian Period 2482. About the same time also, the Nativity of Peleg, the Division of the Earth, and Confusion of Languages at the Building of the Tower of Babel, did happen: And after this manner, Belus, who built Babylon, (as many Historians do testify) was that Nimrod, whom the Scriptures do expresse to have reigned over Babylon, and whom most Christian Authors, (like as Josephus) for that very reason do suppose to have been the Founder thereof. It adds much to the Confirmation of this Testimony of Justin or Trogus, in that also the Account of Diodorus Siculus, out of Ctesias, (who says that the Assyrian Kingdom continued 1360 years to the Fall of Sardanapalus) doth rarely well agree. Count backwards 1360 years from Sardanapalus's Fall, and you will attain to the Head or Beginning of the Babylonian Era, and withall to the 2464 Semiramis, 42 years.	Semiramis, the Wife of Ninus, her Husband being dead, durst not commit the Empire to her immature Son Ninus, neither could she manage the Empire her self, since so many and so great Nations would hardly be governed by one Man, much less by a Woman. She counterfeited her self to be the Son of Ninus instead of his Wife, to be a Boy not a Woman. After that she performed great Exploits, &c. Justin. On the other side Ninus the Son did as it were change Sex with his Mother, for, being seldom seen of Men, he spent all his days among the Female sex.	1511	2464	2248			The Island Ægialia, so named from Ægialus, afterwards called Apia, and now at last Peloponnesus Paulan.

ZOROASTRES the Magician, King of the Baſtrians is recorded to be about the time of Ninus. But Ctesias doth call that King of the Baſtrians, who fought with Ninus, Oxyartes. Pliny likewise doubteth, whether Magick was of ſo great Antiquity. The moſt ancient Writer Xanthus Lydius doth count 600 years from the time of Zoroaſtres, to the time that Xerxes paſſed over the Io was the Daughter of Inachus, whom the Egyptians do call Isis, and worship her. From her Bosphorus hath its Name.

From Inachus is deriv'd the Name of the River Inachus in Greece.

From the time of Inachus are almost 700 years to the time of the Trojan Kingdom. Euseb. in the Greek Volume; for in the Latin there is a mistake of 500 for 700. Scaliger's Edition.

Tatianus nominateth or counterth in this Interval or space of time 20 Generations more, which agreeth well, reckoning three Generations for every hundred years.

The Stemm or Pedigree of Inachus to Cadmus.

Inachus.

Phoroneus, Io, call'd Isis.
Niobe, &c.

Argus, Apis, Serapis or Osiris, Pelasgus the Brother, from Jafus, King of Egypt, Husband whom came the Pelasgi, a Io the Second, to Io or Isis. People of Greece.
Epaphus, Thesalus.
Libya, Hamon.
Agenor,
Phoenix, Cadmus.

Pausanias doth muster them up thus :

Inachus,
Phoroneus,
Niobe,
Argos,
Phorbas,
Triopas,
Jafus,
Io,
&c.

In the time of Hermion, King of the Germans, the College of the French Priests, call'd Druidæ, did flourish; they had their Name from Δρυς, Δρυός, Quercus, an Oak, by reason that they esteemed nothing more sacred than the Oak or Mistle thereon growing, nor did they perform any holy Rites without an Oaken Bough. They did determine all Controversies, and ordain Laws. See Aventine. See also below, the year 3810, in the continuation of the Kings of Scotland.

53 59 50 1 Apis the Grand child 2 of Phoroneus by Jupi- 3 ter and his Daughter 4 Niobe: He is said to 5 have been called by a 6 nother Name Osiris and 7 Serapis. Who when he 8 had transferred his 9 Kingdom into Egypt, 10 he taught the unskil- 11 ful People many things. 12 as Husbandry, and e- 13 specially the use of 14 Wine, so that after- 15 wards he was wor- 16 shipped as a God un- 17 der the shape of an Ox.	The 18th. Government among the Egyptians. According to the Volumes of Manethon the E- gyptian Priest (whose Fragments are extant) with Josephus and Africanus, we have omitted the for- mer seventeen, because they far exceed the begin- ning of the World. If any one be desirous let him consult Scaliger's Canons. This we have taken out of Josephus, who reciteth the very words of Manethon, after a far different series of Kings than is read in Africanus.	544 545 546 547 548 549 550 551 552 553	24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33	192011 12012 22013 32014 42015 52016 62017 72018 82019 92020	1743 1747 1746 1745 1744 1743 1742 1741 1740 1739	The Telchines, being banished Peloponnesus, (wh.n by the assistance of the Caryates they made War against Phoroneus King of Greece and the Arcadians) went to Rhodes, Euf. which there- upon was called Telchinia, afterwards Ophiusa, for its being infested with Serpents, from which it was freed by Phorbas King of the Grecians. Strab. Diod. See Phorbas below.
18 which is exprest by the 19 word Apis in the E- 20 gyptian speech. See 21 Strab. & Pliny. But 22 Scaliger, not without 23 cause, doth conjecture 24 that there was another 25 Apis besides the above- 26 mentioned. Animadu- 27 on Euseb.	4 * THEMOSIS, who did abolish the Govern- ment of preceding Pastours. I was willing to begin at the 18th. by reason of the Synchronism of the Affairs of Israel with the Egyptian Kingdom in sacred History, as in Exodus. But because those things in relation to this Government, which we have taken out of Africanus, are much different from those in Josephus, I have also added those in the Mar- gin, that every one may chuse that which seems most nearly to accord with the holy Scripture. That Government begins, according to Africa- nus, about the year of the World 2252. But Josephus thinks this Themosis to be Pharaoh, who drove the Congregation of Pastours out of Egypt, as Manethos writeth, and those Pa- stours he supposeth to be the Hebrews; But the series of time and circumstances in Manethon's Works, declare that that History can no-wise be referred to the time of Exodus, or the Chil-	554 555 556 557 558 559 560 561 562 563	6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15	102021 112022 122023 132024 142025 152026 162027 172028 182029 192030	1738 1737 1736 1735 1734 1733 1732 1731 1730 1729	Apis, King of the Grecians, built the City Memphis in Egypt, [now called Grand-Cairo]. Aristeas the Grecian declares him to be surna- med Sorapis, and to be the same whom the E- gyptians adore. But Nymphodorus the Amphi- politan, Lib. 3. de Statutis Asiae, saith Apis was a dead Bull, preserv'd or embalm'd with Salt, and put into a Coffin in the Temple of their God, whom they there worshipped, and for that reason called SOROAPIS, (from the Greek Σορός, Fe- trum, Anglicè a Bier or Coffin;) and after- wards, by a certain Custome of the Inhabitants, called Sarapis. All this is related by Tarian. apud Clement.

As touching the Founder's Name Authours disagree. Eusebius says 'twas built by Spartus Son to Phoroneus; but Stephanus and Eustath. by Spartus the Son of Amyclas, who was the Son of one of Caria. Pausanias denies that any one called by the Name of Spartus was the Son of Phoroneus: And Ste- phanus doth alledge Spartus to have been the Brother of Phoroneus. De Urbibus.

spoiled of his Kingdom, inasmuch that he was compelled to seek a new station in Caria, according to Diodorus.

Tatian and Clement of Alexandria do refer the same to the time of Crotopus King of Greece.

Orosius falsly doth refer to the time of Amphictyon, 810 years before the City of Rome was built.

The same Clement together with Tatian refer the time wherein Phaëton had like to have set the World on fire, to the Reign of Crotopus; whereas Phaëton was the fifth after Cecrops, according to Apollodorus.

Attis was Daughter to Cranaus, from whom Attica terra, or the Countrey belonging to Athens, took its Name.

38	30	47	11	1	2311	16	15	1448	Danaus, having obtain'd the Grecian Kingdom, caus'd the Dry Countrey (for that reason call'd Stivov "Aegy ^o ", i. e. thirsty Greece) to abound with Water, by causing Wells to be digg'd, through the toil and service of his Daughters; whence this saying, "Aegy ^o ἀνύσσει ἐν Δαναοῖσι Stivov "Aegy ^o ἔνυσσεν, Argos minime aquosum Danaides effecere aquis irriguum.	This was the beginning of the Mosaic years of Jubile and Sabbathical years, after that the Israelites began to till the Land (which they possess'd, and which was distributed, to them by Lot,) as was commanded, Levit. 25. And so the beginning of the Jubilean years doth precisely fall out on the 2500th. year of the World.

have been. Manethos on Josephus, 1. Con. Apion. This is the reason why Scaliger thinks that the beginning of the Kingdom of Greece is too far fetch'd by Eusebius, down to the Trojan times. For it behov'd Danaus to have been trac'd down to the time of Sethosis, for some Denaries of years: as also Theseus (who ravish'd Helena) from whose time, to the Destruction of Troy, were almost 50 years; whereas notwithstanding it is not very probable, that Helena at that time was so well stricken in years, as Eusebius himself doth likewise rightly animadvert, in Chron. However it is not lawfull, without the testimony of some ancient approv'd Authour, to interrupt Chronolgy, by cutting off any thing from the series of years, or by altering the same. The tradition concerning Danaus and Armais is suspected by Scaliger, in his Animadversions on Eusebius. But Aegypt was call'd Æria, or Ayre in former times. Steph. Eustath. Also Potamia, Æthiopia (from the Æthiopians flocking thither out of India:) likewise Æria, from Ærus a certain Indian, and Ogygia, and Melambolus, and Hephæstia or Vulcania.

History and Poetical Fictions.

The GENEALOGY of PHRYXUS.

Prometheus,
Deucalion,
Helle, from whom the Grecians are call'd Ἑλληγες.
Æolus, He was not the King of Thebes.
Athamas, King of Thebes.

Phryxus and Helle
by Nephelē their Mother.

Melicerta by Ino her Mother.

Phrygia was so named from Phryxus.

GANYMEDES was snatch'd up by an Eagle 65 years after the Burning of IDA. Clem. Strom. 1. out of Thrasyllus.

About this time Phryxus, running away with his Sister Helle, that he might shun the treachery of his step-mother Ino, was seen to be carried over the Sea and transported into Asia, on a Ram that had a golden Fleece, which he stole from his Mother, (that is to say) in a Ship whose Ensign was the Ram: But Helle, affrighted and terrified in her apprehension, fell off, and so gave a name to the Sea called the Hellespont. Phryxus arriv'd safe to Colchis, to the King Ætus, and there sacrificing the Ram, he hung the golden Fleece in the Temple; which afterwards Jason by Medea's means stole away. Apollod. Herod. Euseb. &c.

Phemonœ, in the days of Abas King of the Argives, was the first that gave out Oracles, and found out Hexameter Verse; viz. of this sort:

Συμφέρετε μέγιστον δῖον αἰετὸν κρέοντε μέλισσιν.

Others will have it to be in Acrisius's Reign. Scaliger's Animadversions. See Pausan. Hesiod. Theogn. Eustath.

About this time the Amazons did exert themselves again; these had one Queen or Commandress in the War named Martpeis, another Governess at home named Lantpotin. The story of the Amazons seems to Strabo prodigious and scarcely credible. But many Historians do mention them;

Θήραι δ' ἔτι πλείων ἐπὶ δόλῳ ἦσαν πολλοί

Ἄλλοι ἐπιζών, saith Hesiod.

Proetides the Daughters of Proetus, for preferring themselves to Juno, were struck mad, and fancied themselves to be Kine; but were at last cured by Melampus with Hellebore, which sort of Hellebore for that reason beareth the name of Melampodium. Pliny lib. 25. c. 5.

The Battel betwixt the Athenians and Eleusini, wherein Eumolpus King of Thrace slew Eriethus (Scholiast of OEdipus Sophocleus) in the time of Proetus. Clem. Pausan.

Sardepon, Glaucus, both of them slain in the Trojan War. Hom.

Amphion reign'd at Thebes. He is said to move the Stones with the sound of his Lute; that is to say he did allure their hard and rustick hearts with his Eloquence. Euseb. Horace in Arte. He and his Brother Zethus were the Sons of Jupiter by Antiopa. He seems not to be that Amphion who was in the Argonautic Voyage.

Pelops the Son of Tantalus, King of Phrygia, and Taygete, he was serv'd up to the Gods at an Entertainment, all of them forbore to eat him, save that Ceres devour'd one of his Shoulders. Jupiter reviv'd him, and made him an Ivory-shoulder. The young man betook himself to King Oenomaus in Elis whom overcoming in a Chariot-contest, he won both his Daughter Hippodamia and the Kingdom by agreement, and call'd Cheloneus after his own name Peloponnesus. HISTORY.

The Jewish Period.	The Cycle of ☉	Years before our Saviour's Birth.	The first Government of the Original ITALIANS.

2465	2	171294	1 Picus.	Gorgophone, Perieres being dead, was married again to OEbalus, this being the first Example of a Second Marriage. Paul.
2466	3	181293	2	Pelops, the Son of Tantalus, first of all instituted the Olympick Games at Elis. See Scal. Can.
2467	4	191292	3	Perseus, the Grand-child of Acrisius by Danae, overcame the Gorgons. Whereupon arose the Story of Medusa's head among the Poets.
2468	5	11291	4	Sthenelus was the Son of Perseus by Andromeda.
2469	6	21290	5	Another of this name, the Son of Capaneus, in the Trojan War. Homer's Iliad. 2.
2470	7	31289	6
2471	8	41288	7
2472	9	51287	8
2473	10	61286	9	About this time Cadmus, the Son of Agenor, carried Letters from Phœnicia into Greece, (and there taught the use of them) as he went to seek out his Sister Europa, stoll away by the Cretes, (by Jupiter in the shape of a Bull) in a Ship call'd Taurus. Diodor. Those Letters did well agree with the old Ionic Character, according to Herodorus. Whose Pictures or Shapes together with their explications most worthy to be known, pleasant to behold, and venerable for their Antiquity, you may see in the Treasury of Antiquity; Scaliger's Animadversions on Eusebius; who in that Treatise informs us, that the ancient Characters of the Hebrew Letters were the very same. Cadmus despairing to find his Sister, staid in Bœotia with his Companions, where he built the City Thebes, Ovid. For which reason 'twas call'd Cadmean Thebes. Propertius. See more of Cadmus, Apollod. Nonn. It is a Hebraic Name signifying Oriental or Ancient. Phœnix, the Brother of Cadmus, (and the name it self in the Hebrew Tongue is Phinechas) from whom Phœnicia was so called, being also sent by Agenor, he passed over into Asia, and built Cities in Bithinia. Euseb.

2481	18	141278	17
2482	19	151277	18
2483	20	161276	19	Eurytheus by Juno's instinkt did injoy Hercules to destroy divers Monsters, in hopes that he would be kill'd thereby, but Hercules always return'd Conquerour: Which gave occasion to the Story of Hercules his 12 Labours, which are describ'd in as many Verses in Virgil's Epigrams. Also the 8th. Æneid. Homer declares the cause of Juno's hatred to be, by reason Hercules was born in adultery of Jupiter with Alcmena. Iliad. 19th. See also Diod. Sicul.
2484	21	171275	20	About this time arose the Fable of Proserpina, whom Pluto or Orcus King of the Molossi stole away, whose Dog named Cerberus of a vast bigness did devour Pirithous, who accompanied Theseus to fetch away his Wife. But Hercules coming unawares freed Theseus from the danger of death; and for that reason he is said to have been as it were fetch'd back from Hell. Euseb. out of Philochorus.

2492	1	61267	28	Asterius King of Crete married Europa (the Daughter of Agenor, and Sister of Cadmus and Phœnix) whom Jupiter had ravished before. Euseb. Augustine calleth this King Xanthus. Minos and Rhadamanthus were begotten of Europa by Jupiter as some say, and according to others by Asterius; Hereupon 'tis supposed that the History of Cadmus appertains to these times, for that Minos was contemporary with Theseus: Others refer it to the time of Danaus, and those the foregoing Genealogy seems to favour.
2493	2	71266	29	The Story of Oedipus and the Monster Sphinx, happen'd about this time. Oedipus was the Son of Laius King of Thebes (by Jocasta the Daughter of Creon) who succeeded Amphion and Zetho in the Kingdom.
2494	3	81265	30	Sisyphus the Off-spring of Æolus the God of the Winds, the Father of Anticlea, and Grand-father of Ulysses liv'd in these times. He built Corinth, otherwise call'd Ephyræ; Eusebius, who placeth him long before that time, as if he had been some other. He was a subtle fellow. His punishment in Hell for Babling is described by Homer, in the Travels of Ulysses. Of his Posterity was Glaucus, who changed his Armour with Diomedes in the Trojan War, 6th. Ilias.

2502	11	161257	1 Faunus.	TYRE was built 240 years before the building of the Temple of Solomon. Josephus. Yet there is mention of Tyre, Jos. 19. Thyestes did commit Adultery with the Wife of Atreus his Brother, whereupon Atreus out of indignation slew his Brother's Sons, and having dress'd them, serv'd them up to him to be eaten, and so did revenge his affront. Paul. Hence came the Proverb. Thyestes Supper. The Cretian War with the Athenians, wherein the Athenians being overcome were compell'd to deliver up their Sons to be devour'd by the Monster Minotaurus. Paul.

The VOYAGE of the ARGONAUTÆ to Colchis to get away the golden Fleece, ſo called from the Ship Argos.

The chief Captains and braveſt Heroes were, Hercules Jaſon, Caſtor and Pollux, Telamon, Orpheus, Peleus, Atlantes, Typhis, Lynceus, Admetus, Iphitus, Iphiclus, Periclimenus, Aſtorides, Aglaus, Iphidamas, Meleager, Menœrius, Augias, Eurytion, Oileus, Amphion, &c. Apoll. & Orph.

It happened about the end of Laomedon's reign, and beginning of Priamus. For Hercules ſlew Laomedon for that he dealt importunely and ſpitefully by him, and ſubſtituted his Son Priamus in the Kingdom, for they ſail'd along by his Countrey. And this was the firſt occaſion of the Trojan War. Scaliger doth inform us that this Voyage was ſcarce 20 years before the Deſtruction of Troy, and that the beginning of Theſeus his reign was too far fetcht by Euſebius, &c.

* The Olympic Games were ſet on foot by Atreus, in honour of his Father Pelops. See Scalig. Canons. The Voyage of the Seven to Thebes, for the interrving of the Oedipodæ, prohibited by Creon, King of Thebes, the Father of Jocasta, was about this time. Euſeb. In the time of Adraſtus. 233	9	8	9	6	4	2811	12	2	948	HOMER was born 100 years after the Ionic Travel, Apoll. and Ephor. 160 years before the building of Rome, if years, which Scripture hath assigned, down to the Destruction of Jerusalem, not heeding or respecting the comparison or continued series of the Kings of Israel. For the continuance or keeping on of which series others constitute an Interregnum or Vacancy, between Amaziah, Uzziah and Azariah of 11 years, in which the Government was in the power of Peers, or the Sanhedrin [i. e. the Jewish Council or Assembly]. We have in this place, as in others, set down Scaliger's Opinion; that if any one had rather follow another's, we have also adjoyned his proof.

 Neither is it to be doubted but that in progress of time this Government was swallowed up by that of the Babylonians. Upon which occasion some do hitherto refer that place in Ezekiel 31. v. 11.

† and arms. He divided the year into 12 months, which before consisted but of 10, yet by interposing the intercalary or odd months according to the motion of the Moon, that it might agree with the Solar motion, he likewise ordained sacred Rites and Ceremonies in great number. See Livy. His Laws may be read in Val. Forster.

†† Tirhakah, by the Septuagint Tharaca. And he first reigned in Ethiopia, before that he had obtained rule in Egypt. The name hath some agreement with that of Tharce the Ethiopian, in Josephus, B. 10. ch. 1.

Whereas about the beginning of this Second Monarchy, the series of Chronology in the Bible is discontinued or at an end; it hath come to pass by the special Grace of God, that about the same time foreign [or other] History should as it were succeed in its place, and make a connexion of preceding and succeeding times with sacred History, by many different Epochs or Dates; such are, 1. The Olympiads, 2. The Stadionics, (viz. The Victors in every Olympick Game,) 3. The Athenian Magistrates, 4. Years from the Building of Rome, and 5. The Roman Consuls, but, 6. above all The Astronomical Date of Nabonassar, which alone is worth its weight in Gold. As touching the alligation of these Æra's to the years of the World, See the Guide or Manuduction of John Behm Dr. in Divinity and Professour of Chronology.

* Astyages was vanquished by Cyrus his Grand-child by his Daughter Mandane, with the assistance of Harpagus, before whom Astyages had caused his Son to be served up as Meat at the Table. Herodotus. Thus was the Kingdom of the Medes translated to the Persians, and by this means arose the Beginning of the second [Persian] Monarchy. We noted before that the years of the World, [viz. the Date of the Kingdom of Media] may not without reason be hitherto applied, for that the Kingdom of Persia ought to commence, according to Herodotus. But if we take the Kingdom of Media, as presently ensuing the series of the Assyrian Kingdom, according to the account of Diodorus Siculus, the Babylonian Æra, and Justin's computation, then the matter will come down to the years of the World as here they are placed.

† Darius may be counted wherein the building of the Temple was restrained. See his 1st Disp. on 2nd Thess. 1. 5. 4. Junius and Scalig. are of the same opinion. The Persian Monarchy is compared to the Breast and Arms in Nebuchadnezzar's Image, Dan. 2. For where the Head doth end, there doth the Neck, and Breast and Arms begin, which do signifie or point at the two Kingdoms of Media and Persia.

This Breast was of Silver, whereby Authours do think was meant the Riches of this Kingdom. See Esther ch. 1 and 3. Haman Prince of the Persian Kingdom weighed unto King Ahasuerus 10000 Talents. Diodorus writeth, that Alexander the Great, after he had taken the Sogians, found in the King's Treasures above 40000 Talents of Gold and Silver that was not coin'd; and besides all that 9000 Talents of Daric Golden Coin. Curtius reporteth, that at the storming of Persepolis, a vast sum or quantity of Captive Money was delivered up, even so much as in a manner exceeds all belief; for he mentioneth 120000 Talents of Gold; and at the taking of the Pisagardi 60000 Talents, B. 5. Strabo, comprehending all together, saith 180000 Talents. Pliny writeth that Cyrus, when he had subdued Asia, found 34000 pound-weight of Gold. See also Isaiah, ch. 45. v. 3. This is called the lesser or inferior Kingdom, in respect of Babylon, which must not be at all understood both as to its Power and Dignity; for certainly that [of Persia] was a most potent Kingdom.

It is compared to the Bear, by reason of its Cruelty and strong Desire to Rule; wherefore it was said unto him, Arise, devour much Meat. It is said to have raised it self on one side, or to stand but in part, because of the Jews, on whom the Persians did bestow many Benefits, albeit for a time they hindered the building of the Temple, as appeareth in the Book of Ezra.

The Fourth Government of the Jewish Rulers or Captains is carelessly set down by ancient Writers, for their Names are no where to be found after the sacred Record of Nehemiah and the Chronicles, except in the Jewish Chronicle of Seder Olam; but where they are not set down according to the year, Josephus delivers the series of Pontiffs or High-priests without the assignation of years. Eusebius in the former Book of Chronicles (published in the Greek Tongue) doth account the years, a few being omitted. Another certain old Greek Chronicle (which Scaliger had gotten of Calaubon) hath assigned years to all the Pontiffs, but it doth not appear whence they are taken. Eusebius's Account doth more truly accord with Histories. There are some who gather out of Josephus, that after Zorobabel, the whole Government was in the Power of the Pontiffs only, David's Posterity being utterly excluded. But the Histories of the Jews do plainly shew the contrary, and Josephus rightly insinuating the matter doth testify the contrary, B. 11. Ch. 4. viz. that the Hasmonæi (the state of things being changed) did obtain the Government. This is certainly true, that the Pontiffs had the greatest Power, but not in such manner, as that the Captains had none. See what Josephus doth rehearse concerning the Ruler, Joseph. B. 12. Ch. 45.

Such Kingdoms as had their Rise or Beginning in the First Monarchy are here to be repeated, viz.

1. That of the EGYPTIANS, which Cambyſis transferr'd to the Persians. And whereas they did sometimes rebell, they were always kept in subjection untill the third Grecian Monarchy. Herod. Diod.

2. The ROMAN Empire, of which there hath been a very remarkable change or declension from its Kingly or Monarchical State, to wit, into Democracy or Popular Government under Consuls in the time of Darius Hyllaspis; from about 60 years then after, into the Decemvirate, or Government by Ten Men; and shortly after (according to the testimony of Cicero) into the hands of the Consuls; after that the Military Tribunes, having Consular Authority did bear Rule; and last of all the Power of Consuls was restored, which was continued down to the Fourth Monarchy. Out of Livy and Dionysius.

3. The LACEDÆMONIAN and ATHENIAN Republicks, which by their Annual Archontes or Magistrates do infer great Light to History Of these two Common-weals, the most memorable Victory against Xerxes is famous. Herod. Diodor. and others. And after that the mutual Fight of one against the other, called the Peloponnesian War, wherein the Athenians were wholly disabled. Thucyd.

4. The THEBAN Government, which, not long after the Peloponnesian War, did much impair the strength of the Lacedæmonians; but shortly after that was utterly overthrown by Alexander the Great. Diod. Justin.

5. The State of the PHOCENCES, wherein nothing memorable remains except the Holy WAR about the end of this Monarchy. Diod.

6. The MACEDONIAN Kingdom, wherein were performed but some few Exploits before the Reign of King Philip Alexander's Father. They did both enlarge their Power by the mutual Wars and Ruine of the Grecian Cities. See Justin. B. 8. 11.

7. The Kingdom of SICILY, whose Tyrant Gelo together with his Successors are not forgotten, did continue till the third Monarchy after the Reign of Xerxes. Diodor.

8. The Kingdom of the FRANKS or Francones doth derive its Origin from the Trojans, who were brought to the Mouths of the River Rhine out of Scythia by Marcomirus Antenor's Son, and there they fixed their abode for many Ages till the year of Christ 419. at which time they passed over into France Theodofius the younger then Reigning, as Trithemius witnesseth; as also writeth Paulus Æmilius.

 and slew Antigonus. Diod. He was Demetrius's Son-in-Law. He built Antioch, Seleucia, Laodicea, Apamia, Berhœa and Pellum. Just. Euf. Here ensueth the Third Monarchy of the Greeks, the founder whereof was Alexander the Great the Son of Philip King of Macedon, he having vanquished Darius, the last King of the Persians, at Arbela. This Kingdom is signified by the Third Beast in Daniel's Vision, viz. the Leopard having four Heads and four Wings. Also by the He-goat that had four Horns, which is expressly meant to be the King of Greece, Dan. 8. v. 21. On this account the Grecians, (before Alexander's first rencounter with the Persians, when they assembled at Isthmus) did by a general suffrage make choice of Alexander for to be their Captain against the Persians. Plutarch. Alexander.

He is compared to the winged Leopard by reason of his wonderfull swiftness. For in the space of 12 years he conquer'd almost the whole Earth, as Histories do testifie, wherefore he is likened to the butting He-goat that touched not the ground, Dan. 8. v. 5. and truly from the West, to wit. Greece, which in respect of Asia is situate towards the West. Authours produce many reasons for this comparison; namely, for that a Leopard hath many remarkable Spots; that it hath an odoriferous or sweet-smelling Skin; that it is a Beast of Prey; that it is endued with great sagacity of Nature; that it is delighted with Wine. For so Alexander was eminent for manifold Vertues and Vices wherewith he abounded: out of his pleasant

But the four Heads are attributed to the Leopard, and the four Horns to the He-goat; because of the four principal or chief Kingdoms, which after Alexander's Death did spring from this Empire, viz. Kingdoms of Syria, Egypt, Macedon and Asia, according to Daniel's Interpretation, ch. 8. v. 22. and Polybius's testimony, B. 5. p. 473. For albeit Curtius, Justin and others do rehearse more Provinces, to wit, according to the number of the Captains, yet it is manifest, that these four were the chief ones. For even Josephus doth reckon up the Potentates or Rulers of Syria, Egypt, Macedonia, Asia and the Hellespont as the most powerfull, which mutually making War together, other Potentates join'd their Forces, and so at length by little and little they were swallowed up. And although in the beginning the power was invested in Aridaeus Alexander's Brother, and Perdiccas was adjoin'd to him in the Administration, as you may see in Curtius, nevertheless Aridaeus being kill'd, those Captains did begin to usurp the Title of Kings. Justin B. 5. Plutarch, Demetrius and others. The Kingdom of Asia did in a short time accrue to the Kingdom of Syria, as also the Hellespont.

In the mean time the Puissance of the City of Rome was increased, and in progress of time all those Kingdoms were brought under subjection to the Roman Power. First of all the lesser Asia Antiochus the Great being subdued. Liv. B. 37. Justin B. 13. Next Macedonia, Perseus being vanquished 156 years after the Death of Alexander. After that Syria, Tigranes being conquer'd by Pompey, about 260 years after the death of Alexander. Liv. Plut. Just. And lastly Egypt, which was first taken by Julius Caesar, when he over-power'd Ptolemy the King, but he gave the Kingdom to Cleopatra Ptolemy's Sister; till at last Octavianus Augustus brought Egypt under his Jurisdiction, having subdued Mark Anthony and Cleopatra. Plutarch, Anton. &c. 294 years after Alexander's Death. Ptol. B. 3. c. 8.

If any should demand, how it can come to pass, that four Kingdoms do constitute one Monarchy; we answer, that this Axiome takes place, not as they are considered separately, but jointly, no otherwise than as a Prince being dead, all the Governours do jointly represent the Prince, so that if any part of a Dominion be taken away by some foreign Invasion, that part cannot be said to be taken away from the Governour of that particular place, but from the whole Sovereignty: In like manner the Romans may be said to have diminished the Grecian Monarchy, whenas they had taken away Asia, and had possession of Macedonia, Greece and Syria; but they cannot properly be said to have extinguished, and transferr'd the same to themselves, untill they shall subdue Egypt, the last remaining part also.

This Monarchy lasted precisely 300 years. For there are 294 years from Alexander's Decease to the Death of Cleopatra, as Ptolemy witnesseth. Add six years of Alexander's Reign after the Death of Darius (according to Diodor. and Arrian) and you will have 300 years, which number Africanus, and from him Eusebius in his Evangelical demonstration, and Jerome on Dan. 9. do expressly mention. The whole time of this Monarchy may be distinguished into two chief Heads or Points, viz. 1. From the Death of Alexander to Antiochus Epiphanes and the profanation of the Temple. 2. The Government of the Maccabees from the Death of Epiphanes to the fourth Monarchy.

4. The Kingdom of the Parthians, who revolted from Callinicus and Hierax, (Kings of Syria and Brothers mutually warring) and grew very powerfull, so that in ensuing Times they found the Romans enough to doe, did list to the Fourth Monarchy, down to the time of the Emperour Alexander Severus; as you may see in Justin. B. 41. 42. Appian, and Sextus Rufus.

5. The Kingdom of the Scots took its Beginning about the time of Alexander the Great. Heft. Boet. and continued through many Ages to this present time. There is mention of it made in Tacitus and Solinus.

6. The Kingdoms of Armenia, Pontus, Epirus, Cappadocia, Numidia and Mauritania, (whereof there is mention made in Roman History,) do want a continued Series of the Times.

7. The Grecian, Lacedemonian, Athenian, Rhodian and Massilian Republicks. The Lacedemonian Government, did undergo a notable change, the Kings being slain, in the time of Antigonus King of Macedon; a little after that it fell into the hands of Tyrants, viz. Machanidas and Nabis, from whom at length it was freed. Just. B. 28. Paulanias, Plutarch, Philoponem. and others.

The Athenians, presently after the Death of Alexander, were variously afflicted by Antipater, Cassander, Demetrius King of ASIA, and Antigonus Gonatus: But were at last restored to their Liberty. Just. B. 13. Diod. 19. Plut. Demetrius. The Commonwealth of Carthage was raz'd by the Romans. Pliny, Diod. and others.

† Euenus I. Durstus his Cousin-german, was sent for out of Banishment to possess the Kingdom.

8. The Kingdom of Sicily did continue until the time of the Second Punick War, and then the Romans took Sicily. Livy. B. 24. &c.

9. The Commonwealth of ROME was the most eminent of all others, as may easily appear from the means whereby they made way for the establishment of a Monarchical Government, the Empire of the Seleucidæ, Macedonians and Ptolemies by degrees falling to Decay. What things are here most remarkable, are, the Tarentine Battel with Pyrrhus, after the Building of Rome 473 years. Pliny. The first Punick War 488 years after the Building of Rome. Liv. † Syria. Tac. B. 3. at the time of Julia's Banishment, or a short while after. Patern. which Suetonius and Dion do count to have been about the 43d. Julian year.

The Fourth Beast is described by Daniel to be dreadful and terrible, and exceedingly strong, having great iron Teeth, wherewith it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the Feet of it; and that it was driven from all the Beasts that were before it. It plainly appears that this Similitude could suit with no other Empire or Dominion except the Roman. For no other that ever succeeded arrived to so great Might. It moreover appears plainly from it, viz. that in his days CHRIST should be born, Dan. 2. ver. 34. For St. Drines do interpret the Stone that was cut out of the Mountain without hands. For CHRIST was born in the Reign of Augustus, who bore sway throughout the whole World, Luk. 2. ver. 1. And furthermore, the Beast having ten Horns is the Fourth Kingdom, Dan. 7. ver. 7. Such was that of Rome, as appears from Revel. ch. 13. ver. 1, 2. and ch. 17. ver. 10, 18. Where also we must note in Rev. 13. ver. 2. that all these things and properties are attributed to this Beast which were severally attributed to the preceding Beasts, as Simi Jerom hath rightly observed. For he was like unto a Leopard, had the Face of a Lion, and Feet of a Bear; and so he was as it were composed or made up of (or like unto) all the other, and excell^d them all in Fierceness and Power; which in all probability is the reason why, in the 7th. Chapter of Daniel, it hath no Name, nor certain likeness of any particular Beast assigned to it; for which reason Drines compare the same to the manifold ways of Government, and various mutations of that Empire.

By that Fierceness and Cruelty of the Beast, Desire to rule is not so much meant or intended, as Persecutions, wherewith the CHURCH hath been miserably afflicted in the time of Heathen Emperours, and afterwards by Antichrist: For which reason the Beast was of a Scarlet Colour, Rev. 17. v. 3, 4, 6. For the like Causes also, Dan. 2. His Legs were of Iron, v. 33. For as Iron doth break all things in pieces; in like manner the Roman Power, having subdued and trampled upon all Nations, it had the mastery of all parts of the Earth that are accessible and habitable by mankind, and did bear sway not only on this side Hercules's Pillars, but lorded it over the Ocean, wheresoever navigable; and is the first and only Nation (in the memory of all men) which made the East and the West the Bounds or Limits of its Dominion; daring to assume the Command or Government of the whole World, it constantly obtained Rule in all parts of it; and there is scarce any Nation (as I may say) but which will acknowledge Rome to be Mistress of the Universe, and own its Sovereignty, as saith Dionysius Halicarnassæus, B. 1. To conclude, as Iron is most durable or lasting; even so this Empire hath been of very long continuance, and shall endure to the end of the World, Dan. 7. v. 9, 26, &c. ch. 2. v. 45.

It had Feet made partly of Iron and partly of Clay; for that the Empire should be divided, as the Prophet himself hath interpreted, Dan. 2. v. 41.

The Toes of the Image were part of Iron, part of Clay; for that the Power of that Nation should be sometimes stronger, sometimes weaker, as Daniel expounds, ver. 42. Both which are sufficiently apparent as well in the Division of the Empire into the East and into the West, as in the Lists of many Kingdoms, and the Irruptions of the Barbarians, in the days of Theodosius, and since, viz. when the Vandals, Huns or Hungarians, the Alani, Goths, Gauls, Suevians, Lombards, Saracens, and other People did sadly rend the Empire, though often repressed, and some of them utterly destroyed; untill such time as Charles the Great did for the most part recover and conjoyn the Western part desired by the Emperours of Constantinople, and did rouse up the Empire of Germany; and although many stout Heroes, and many of mean strength did afterwards succeed him in the Empire, yet they could by no means of Power, Confederacy or Matrimonial League bring it to pass, so as to reduce the divided Empire to its pristine Glory and Power; as Daniel hath foretold, ver. 43. But we must withall principally take notice, that though the same was so much enfeebled, yet its footing of Iron shall abide, and so much strength shall remain always, as no body can extirpate before the last day, or totally destroy it; which we find very true to this day; for it still remaineth, and shall abide as long as the World shall endure; to wit, that Dignity and Majesty of the Sacred Empire of the Romans, which is most apparent in Germany far beyond all other Kingdoms; for which reason we deservedly intitle our Emperour August or Sovereign and invincible.

5. By this marriage issued Eudoxia, who was given to Wife to Huneric à Genferic the Father of Huneric King of the Vandals.
 6. For Eudoxia the Mother, Valentine III. being slain, was compelled to be married to Maximus the Authour of her first Husband's death; but that she might be freed from that Wedlock, did send for Genferic King of the Vandals out of Africk: Genferic therefore making entrance into Italy, and putting Maximus to flight, carried away the Empreſs with her two Daughters, but shortly after sent the Empreſs back again with one of her Daughters, but retain'd the other, namely Eudoxia, whom he gave his Son to Wife. Marcellin. Niceph.
 7. Her Sister Placidia was given in marriage to Olybrius the Emperor of the West, who was sent into the Western Empire by Leo I. and ordained Emperor.
 8. Leo the Thracian Emperor of the East sent Anthemius to be made Emperor of the West. His Son Fl. Martianus had to Wife Leontia Leo the Emperor's Daughter.

9. in the Family of Theodoricus the Veronensian some Examples are left behind. For Theodoricus Veronensis was King of the Goths, who having made Peace with Zeno the Emperour, (by whom he was called Captain of War and Consul,) and the Western Empire being committed to him, by many Marriages and much Affinity he endeavoured to establish his own Kingdom. For (they are Jornandes's own words) having sent an Embassy to Clodovæus King of the Goths, he requested his Daughter Audelfred in marriage; which he readily and willingly condescended to, supposing that by such alliance his Sons Hildebert, Cheldebert and Thuidebert would be joyn'd to the Goths.

But that Conjunction or Bond of Peace did avail but little as to the Union; for they did very often contest about the Countrey or Lands of the Gauls, (so saith Jornandes) and the Goths would not submit to the Gauls as long as Theodoricus liv'd. Wherefore, before he had issue by Audelfred, he had two natural Daughters by his Concubine in Moesia, namely Theudicodo and Ostrogotho; whom, as soon as he came into Italy, he gave in marriage unto neighbouring Kings; one of them to Alaricus, King of the West-Goths, and the other to Sigismund, King of the Burgundians. Of Alaricus was begotten Amalaricus, whom yet being very young and an Orphan whilst his Grand-father did maintein and take care of, he found Eutharic Witeric's Son, Beremund's and Torismund's Nephew (descended of the Family of the Amali) was living in Spain, being a young man, prudent, valorous and strong: He sent for him, and gave him his Daughter Amalasuenth to Wife. Furthermore, to enlarge his Progeny, he brought it to pass, so that his Sister Amalafred, the Mother of Theodorus, (who afterwards was King of Africk and of the Vandals) was married to Trasemund, and her Daughter Amalaberg, his Niece, to Hormenfred the King of the Thuringi. These are the words of Jornandes; who a little farther saith, Neither was there any Nation in the Western Part which was not serviceable to Theodoric in his lifetime, by reason of Alliance or Subjection, out of Love or Fear. Here may you see five alliances by Marriage, whereby Theodoric did strongly endeavour to strengthen the Empire of the West, yet all in vain, as Jornandes doth in the same place advertise us. See also Paul and Otho, who both set down his design.

14. Hitherto may be referr'd the design of the Emperour Charles the Great, when he endeavoured to obtain Irene the Empress of the West in marriage, that he might unite both the Kingdoms, Irene having before that sent Embassadors to Charles to the end that he would give his Daughter in marriage to her Son. Irene did condescend to the Marriage, nay both the marriages were raised and agreed to, but put a stop to by the Governours of the Grecian Empire. Theophan. Eginhard's Life.

15. Otto II, a German Emperour, took Theophania the Daughter of Romanus Junior the Emperour of Constantinople, in the year 967. Some say Nicephorus the Emperour's Daughter-in-law. Sigeb. Philippus Cæsar the Son of Frederic and Barbarossa was married to the Empress Irene 1640 Angelus the Emperour of Constantinople's Daughter.

16. Philip's Daughter was married to Otto IV. for reconciliation's sake. Nauclet. Reufin. in his Genealogy.

17. Hitherto may be referr'd the marriage of Michael Palæologus, Johannes Patasiz and Irene the Daughter of Andronicus the Elder. Neither do I doubt but that the diligent Readers of History will find many Examples of this kind. This shall suffice at present.

Furthermore, the Beast is said to have had Ten Horns; which some by the Figure Synechdoche do take for an uncertain [greater] Number; others again do ordinarily take them to be the Ten principal Kingdoms, which did comprehend the Roman Empire, when it was in a flourishing Estate, to wit, Italy, France, Spain, Germany, Greece, Asia, Syria, Egypt, Aethiopia and England (instead of which some substitute Sarmatia, or Scythia). The little Horn which came up among the rest, interpreters expound the same to be Mahomet and the Saracens, who being at first vile mercenary Soldiers, did in a short time strangely encrease in riches and honour, under the Conduct of Mahomet, a man of a low Condition, having subdued Asia, Aethiopia and Greece, which they say were the three Horns that were plucked up by the little one. If any one shall contend, that more Kingdoms were overthrown by him, let him consider, that in the first beginning there were only three Kingdoms, and that thus the ten Horns or Kingdoms may be easily reckon'd up, so that in the succeeding times they may well agree with the Mahometan Kingdom, whereas no other Kingdom can be thought upon, which can in all Circumstances so exactly agree with the Prophecy of Daniel.

To that same little Horn are attributed, The Blasphemies against God, War with the Saints and Victory over them; the Change of Times and Laws; which is to be understood of the blasphemous Alcoran, the alteration of Divine Worship, Festival-days, and the Christian Religion; the Victories of the Saracens, and (to this day) of the Turks over the Christians. The little Horn had Eyes like unto the Eyes of a Man, whereby Interpreters do signifie his Industry and Policy in enlarging and defending his Dominion. And after this manner it is very evident that Daniel's Prophecy was fulfilled, nor is there any hopes that the Kingdom of the Turks will be abolished before the day of Judgment; nor is it to be fear'd that it can take away any more Kingdoms from the Roman Empire.

But that the series of the times may be the more conspicuous, it is worth our while, to distinguish the same into certain set Points or Periods from the time of Augustus Cæsar. The first to begin from Augustus (or if you had rather Julius) in whose Reign Christ was born, Luke 2. to the time of Constantine the Great, in the year of the Christian Æra 306th. or 307th. who first of all restored the Peace of the Church throughout the whole World, and transferr'd the Empire of Constantinople; after whose decease, began the first division of the Empire betwixt his Sons. The second, from Constantine to Justinian in the 527th. year, in whose Reign was an end of the Government by Roman Consuls, and a divulcation of the Civil Law. In these days the Empire was again divided between the Sons of Theodosius, whenas not long after the Western Empire did end in Augustulus in the 476th. year. And a little before that, in the Reigns of Theodosius I. and II. the Barbarian Nations did every where begin to rend and lessen the Empire. The Third, from Justinian to Charles the Great, and the last division of the Empire into the Eastern and Western Government, in the year of Christ 800, from which time the Period began in the Western Empire of the Germans, which remains to this day.

Synchronisms of other Governments, or the durance of other contemporary Kingdoms.

Here are many Kingdoms or Governments belonging to the fourth Empire; but it shall be sufficient to touch lightly at them in this place.

1. The Kingdom of the Parthians did continue from the preceding Monarchy, untill the Reign of the Emperour Alexander Severus; in whose time Artaxerxes, a Persian Monarch slew the last of the Arsacidæ (for so the Kings of the Parthians were named ever since the time of Arsaces their King) and transferr'd again the Kingdom to the Persians. Agath. Gc. Which Dynasty of the Persians did last untill the year of Christ 631, when the Saracens, Jezdegird being overcome, were Masters of the Persian Kingdom. Agath. Cedren.

2. The Second Government of the Franconians may be constituted from the year of Christ 419, at which time Pharamund conducted them into Gallia (since called from them France) where they planted. Paul. Æmil. This Dynasty lasted to the time of King Pipin, and the Karolidæ in the year of Christ 750. (Sigeb. Regin.) who held the Third Government. The Fourth Government by the Hugonidæ was in the year of Christ 987. Sigeb. &c. They also to this day retain the Government, but by various Branches from the same Stock or Lineage.

3. The First Government of the Scots endured to the year of Christ 1370. Then succeeded the Second Government by the Stuarts. In the year 1649. King Charles I. was apprehended and openly beheaded; and all the Royal Stem did then lack a Title and Princely Right, and the Kingdom was reduc'd to the form of a Republick or popular Government. At length, in the year 1660 Charles II. the Heir to the Crown was brought back into England, and the Palace of the Stuarts began again to flourish.

4. The Government of West-Gotland in Spain. The first Dynasty began in the year of Christ 381, in the Reign of Alaricus, who afterwards, to wit, in the year 410. pillaged Rome. Marcellin. Proffer. At last the West-Goths were cast out of their Kingdom by the Saracens about the 713th. year of Christ. Sanct. One Pelagius did constitute the second Government in the year of Christ 716. or 717. in Arragon. and Leon. Rod. Toletan. &c. Ferdinand the first King of the Astures, Leon and Castile began the third Government. Ferdinand the First, King of Leon, Castile, Arragon and Sicily began the fourth Government which continueth untill now.

5. The Government of the East-Goths in Italy. Theodorius Veronenis the Great Grand-child of Wintharius a Captain of the East-Goths, having shook off the Hungarian yoke, reigned in Italy, in the time of Zeno the Emperour. He slew Odoacer King of the Lombards, who took away the Western Empire from Augustulus. The last King of the East-Goths was Tejas, who was overcome by Narsetes Justinian's Captain, in the year of Christ 555. Onufr.

6. The Hunni (called afterwards Hungarians) a barbarous Nation, breaking forth into Pannonia out of Scythia, began to be famous about the year of Christ 381. See Siegbert. Their King was Atyla, a terror to Nations in the time of Theodosius junior; His Sons fighting for the Kingdom, were depriv'd thereof. At length, long after, viz. in the year of Christ 744. they rais'd a new Government in Transylvania and Hungary under seven Captains (whereupon were built seven Forts) down to the year of Christ 1000, at which time Stephen of the Lineage of the Hunni being made King, began the third Monarchy. The fourth Government began in the year 1300, when foreign Kings succeeded, who were deriv'd from the Bohemians and the House of Austria, and the same continueth till now. Abrah. Bakichai, and Siegbert.

7. The Vandals, descended from the Scythians, being in the time of Constantine the Great driven out, they subjected themselves to the Roman Empire, and afterwards were permitted to dwell in Hungary, where they peaceably abode untill the year of Christ 410. Siegb. Afterwards they pillaged France, took the Countrey of Spain, with Lithuania and Suevia. About 30 years after they planted themselves in Africk, through fear of the West-Goths, and there they remained to the time of Justinian (being 95 years) whose Captain Belisarius did abolish the Kingdom of the Vandals, in the year 534. Marcell. and Evagr.

8. The Lombards (or Longobards, so called from their long Beards. Siegb.) forsaking Scandinavia in Scythia, in the year 382. they made entrance into the Isle of Rugia, and afterwards into Pannonia, where they abode untill the year 568, at which time dispersing themselves into Italy they began their Second Dynasty under their King Alboinus, and there reigned for the space of 206 years, untill the time of Charles the Great, who in the year 774. having subdued Desiderius their last King, put an end to the Kingdom. Cranz. and Diacon.

9. The Vice-roys at Ravenna were set against the Lombards by the Emperours of Constantinople. Their Government lasted from the year of Christ 569, untill the year 746. Anastas. at which time Ravenna was taken by Luitprand King of the Lombards. Afterwards Ravenna was given to the Pope by Orto I. the Emperour, or at some say by Ludovicus Pius. Regin.

10. The Suevi did settle their Government in Galicia (part of Spain) about the same time that the Vandals seated themselves in Spain. At last, in the year of Christ 584, they were overthrown by the West-Goths. Siegb. Scal.

11. The Saracens (or the Arabian Scenires, who dwell in Tents only) who rebelled against the Emperour Heraclius, for that he denied to pay them their stipend for fighting against the Persians, made Mahomet the false-prophet their Captain in the year of Christ 622, and plundering far and near, first of all they subdued all Syria, then Egypt, and afterwards Africk, sending them from the Empire; and at last took Persia.

Which first Government did continue untill the year of Christ 868. at which time Egypt and Syria were divided as to the Government by Caliphs or Bashaws, whereupon arose a Second Dynasty. Egypt by continual succession of Caliphs was govern'd untill the year of Christ 1246, when it was sway'd by Sultans untill the year 1517, at which time Campton and Tonumbey were vanquish'd by Selim a Turk, and the Kingdom ruin'd. Now on the other side the Second Government of Syria lasted by continual succession untill about the year of Christ 1260, when Musteazam was kill'd by Haleach a Tartar. This is the Series which Scaliger hath delivered to us out of the Historiæ of the Saracens. A little while after arose a new Dynastie or Government, by the Osmanidæ or Turks, which we now call the Ottoman Empire, whose Founder was one Osman a Saracen in the year 1297, according to Scaliger, or 1299, according to Leonclavius, and which remaineth to this day. Osman's Ancestors being added to the Mahometan Religion, have held the Government of the City Mecha for many years.

Ertucules, or Otrugatel, or Erdugryll (for Authours vary as to his name) Osman's Father, dyed in the year 1289, after that he had reigned 52 years. Osman be- took himself to Aladin King of Guinea or Carmania, which Aladin Osman succeeded in the Kingdom, and enlarged his Dominions to a wonderfull greatness. As may be read at large in the Turkish Annals of Leonclavius and others.

12. The Polanders in the beginning had Dukes only, under whom the several Dynasties may be distinguished after this manner. The First Government was by the Lechidæ; The Second by the Cechidæ; The Third by Primislaus; The Fourth by the Lefciadæ. And in these Governments too the series of years is wanting. The Fifth by the Piaftidæ from the year of Christ 806, according to some Authors, down to the time of Boleslaus their first King, so made by Otho the Emperour about the year of Christ 1000. Hence arose the Sixth Government by King, viz. by the Piaftidæ; The Seventh by the Hungarians, in the year of Christ 1371; The Eighth by the Jagellonidæ, deriv'd from Jagellon Duke of Lithuania, in the year 1386; and the Ninth Government by other Kings from the year 1573 until now. Out of Alex. Gaguin.

13. The Kingdom of BRITAIN flourished before Christ his Incarnation for the space of 1116 years, down to the time of Cæsar when it became tributary, and was afterwards reduce'd into the form of a Province. This may be called the second Dynasty. It lasted to the time of Theodolus Junior when it was miserably afflicted by the Scots and Picts; at last the English and Saxons were called home out of Germany. This may be called the Third Dynasty or Government; and after that the Britains had married themselves with mutual Wars for many years, at length, in the year of Christ 800, Egbert King of the Western Saxons, having gotten the whole Government to himself, did make an Edit that the whole Nation should be call'd England. This was the Fourth Dynasty, until the year 1017, when the Danes govern'd the Kingdom by five Kings successively, which made the Fifth Dynasty. The Sixth Dynasty was that of the Norman Race which began in the year of Christ 1067, when William the Conquerour came to the Government. Afterwards the French Count Stephen of Blois did in the year 1136 constitute the Seventh Dynasty, after whom his adopted Son Henry II. Count of Anjou, made up the Dynasty. Then after in the year 1485, the Counts of Wales and Richmond made up the Ninth Dynasty. And lastly, we may conclude the Tenth Dynasty in James VI. King of the Scots. Heit Boetius. Notwithstanding all this, in the year 1649, after much slaughter and various fights and skirmishes, King Charles I. was beheaded at London, and the Kingly Government was wholly taken away from England and Ireland. But in the year 1660 Charles the Second [marry'd Charles his Son] being (by the good Providence of GOD) brought to the Crown as true Heir therunto, he swor'd the Scepter, and the Kingdom was reduc'd to a flourishing Estate.

14. The Kingdom of Bohemia. Zechus the Brother of Lechus (who founded the Kingdom of Poland) a Slavonian by Birth, and a Fugitive, took that part of Germany which is now called Bohemia; after him Dukes govern'd by a certain series of years down to the year 1086, in which Uratilaus II. did first receive the Title of King from Henry V. the Emperour. This may be called the Second Dynasty; albeit that Title was not extended to all his Successors down to the Reign of Primisslaus, who was then a new entitled King by Philip the Emperour in the year 1199, after whom they all bore the Title of Kings by a continued series down to this very time. Out of Æn. Sylv. and Dubravius.

† Ephesus in respect of Eutyches. Baron.

The Kingdoms of Denmark, Swedeland and Norway were held in ancient days (as Johannes Magnus doth hint) by Magog the Son of Japhet Noah's Grand-child, who ruled in Scandia a Northern Island. Noah dividing the Land to his Sons, Japhet obtain'd Europe, Shem, Asia, and Cham Africk, and Scandia fell to Japhet's Son, viz. Magog, which Scandia containeth the 3 Kingdoms, to wit, of the Goths (who were afterwards called Danes, from Danes Humblus's Son) Swedes and Norwegians.

The Kingdom of Denmark (for that amongst approv'd Authours it lacketh a certain series) is obscure down to the time of Ivarus, about the year 869. Denmark was governed by native Kings to the time of Ericus Duke of Pomerland, adopted by Margaret Waldemar's Daughter, in the year of Christ 1411. Crantz. and then after the Kingdom devolved to Christoph. Bararus in the year 1439. In the year 1448. began the Dynasty of Oldenburg by the Dukes of Sletwick and Holstein, Kings of Norway: Afterwards King Frederick III. enjoyed the Kingdoms of Denmark and Norway descended to him from his Ancestors, the Right of Succession being given him with a general applause and congratulation, in the year 1660, even those Kingdoms which afore-time were rul'd by his Ancestors in a long series and with great praise and glory by Election.

The Kingdom of the Swedes in ancient times was frequently united to the Danes, yet for the most part it had distinct Kings, but with an uncertain series of years, to the time of Albertus of Megalopolis his being captivated by Margaret Waldemar's Daughter Queen of Denmark in the year 1387. from which time it was govern'd by the Kings of Denmark for many years.

At length the Government fell to Gustavus Steno's Nephew in the year 1523. untill the year 1654. wherein Christina the Queen of Sweden disposing her Power, voluntarily elected Carolus Gustavus Count Palatine of Rhine, Duke of Bavaria, &c. in her stead; whose Son was elected as heir to the Crown. Norway had sometimes Kings, and sometimes it was subjected to the Swedes and Danes, but chiefly unto the Danes. Out of Johannes Magnus a Saxon Grammarian, and Reusner's Genealogy.

16. Christian Kings of Jerusalem have been from the time of Godefridus Bullioneus the first Christian King, in the year of Christ 1099. the Saracens being driven out. This Kingdom continued to the year 1187, wherein Selaheddin or Saladin a Turkish Sultan of Egypt, regained Jerusalem; and the same is held by the Turks to this day. Out of the Centuries and Matth. Par.

17. As the succession of the Tartars (so Leonclavius willeth us to call them) is barbarous, so it is uncertain, unless what may be gathered out of Haiton of Armenia. What is here most to be remarked, is Temur Chan (called also Tamerlane,) who took Bajazet the Turk Captive, and caused him to be carried about in an Iron Cage. Turkish Annals.

As touching Egypt, Africk and Persia, we have spoken, when we treated of the Saracens or Turks and Parthians.

time the third Age (called by some the Age of Violence and Fraud) may be counted, viz. wherein Arianism and damnable Mahometism was spread far and near in the Eastern part of the World; and Popish Superstitions began to be propagated and encreased throughout many Ages, learned Men also much assisting them, from the year 1160, &c. untill the Reformation of Religion, by the Industry of Martin Luther in the year 1517, to this time.

The Jewish Affairs shall put an end to this Discourse. About the beginning of the fourth Monarchy King Herod ruled over the Jews, and his Son Archelaus after him, who at last was banished, and Judæa reduced into a Province by the Romans, which Province was managed by Governors unto the time of the Destruction of Jerusalem in the year of Christ 70, wherein the Jews were utterly routed and overthrown by Vespasian. Out of Josephus. A little after, in the Reign of Trajan and Adrian, they rebelled, and underwent an universal slaughter, those few that remained alive being dispersed into all parts of the World. Out of Dion. Since which Captivity or Exilement they have been, and remain (according to the sayings of the Prophets) a blinded People, wandering upon the face of the Earth, without any hope of restitution to their former State, and shall wander to the end of the World.
